A horizontal row of numbered symbols, likely a calendar or almanac page. The symbols include various geometric shapes like crosses, triangles, and circles, some with internal markings such as dots or wavy lines. Below each symbol is a number: 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20. The numbers 16, 19, and 20 are written in red ink.

A photograph of a page from a medieval manuscript. The page contains a grid of 11 rows by 3 columns of numbered squares (21 through 31). Each square contains a different symbolic illustration, such as a cross, a crown, or a figure. Above the grid, the Roman numeral 'VIII' is written, followed by an asterisk (*). Below the grid, there are small, stylized illustrations of figures in medieval clothing.
