

A vintage, sepia-toned photograph with a scalloped border. In the center is a cylindrical stone marker or milestone. The stone is light-colored and has several lines of German text carved into its surface. The text is slightly weathered. In the background, there is a dark, metal fence with a diamond-shaped pattern. To the left of the stone, there is a concrete wall and a small, dark, curved object, possibly a pipe or a part of a building. The ground in the foreground is light-colored and appears to be a mix of dirt and gravel.

Bis hierher
nicht weiter
kamen die
russischen Reiter
Juno 1919.