Frank J. Lausche, Slovene Legend

by Ed Jerse

Frank Lausche is a legend among Slovenians. A judge, war-time Mayor of Cleveland, five-term Governor of Ohio, and United States Senator, he was for Slovenians one of the early pathfinders who led the transition from immigrant status to the mainstream of American life.

This summer, while in Washington, I discussed with Senator Lausche his career and his impressions of some of the great figures he had known. We met at the Capitol, where he remains a familiar and respected presence. At 93, he is alert, clear and incisive. In the Senate Dining Room, he told me of his entry into politics.

In the early 1930's, explained Sen. Lausche, political bosses dominated Cleveland and divided between the parties the spoils of the system. In 1931, a young prosecutor named Ray Miller challenged the bosses and ran for Mayor. He recruited Frank Lausche then a young lawyer, to organize Ward 23, the Slovenian ward and "the apple of politicians' eyes."

Miller carried Ward 23 and won the Mayor's chair. He offered his young assistant the posts of Safety Director and Director of Water and Electrical Supply, but the future Senator declined. In 1932, a vacancy occurred on the Municipal Court. "This was the shot I wanted," says the Senator. He made his request and, at age 37, was appointed by then-Governor White to the Municipal bench.

As the 1930's progressed, Frank Lausche's political career prospered. In 1936, he advanced to the Common Pleas bench. In 1941, his base established and secure, he waged a successful campaign to become Mayor of Cleveland. He took office one month before Pearl Harbor.

"My task was to be the leader," says Sen. Lausche of his role in mobilizing Cleveland for the war effort. The winning of the war became the City's focus and many partisan issues were set aside. However, on the political front, Mayor Lausche's relationship with his former mentor Ray Miller deteriorated.

First elected as a rebel, Miller had become boss of Cleveland's Democratic Party. He wanted Mayor Lausche to dismiss famed Safety Director Elliot Ness and, when the Mayor refused, a huge rift developed between the two men. Frank Lausche had demonstrated an independence that would become his trademark. He would soon ride that independence and the popularity it brought to higher office.

In 1944, having led Cleveland through the darkest years of the war, Mayor Lausche turned his sights to statewide politics. He ran for Governor against Cincinnati Mayor James Garfield Steward. "A forceful, eloquent speaker," Steward could count on heavy support downstate. However, as he would time and time again, Mayor Lausche carried Northeast Ohio by huge margins. Though Steward won 78 of Ohio's 88 counties, Mayor Lausche carried the popular vote to become Governor of Ohio.

As Governor, Frank Lausche set a record for longevity. He was elected to five two-year terms, the only governor in Ohio history to receive such a sustained mandate. When the State Assembly finally enacted a two-term limit, Governor Lausche adapted by running for the United States Senate. Defeating the "happy go lucky" incumbent George Bender, he embarked on a 12 year career in national politics. I asked him to describe some of the great personalities he encountered.

"Adlai Stevenson," says the Senator, "was a delight to be with, a highly intellectual man whose ability in presenting problems was unsurpassed." However, Stevenson "possessed qualities that took him out of the realm of rough and tumble political contests." Moreover, the Illinois Governor ran for president twice against Dwight Eisenhower, at a time, Sen. Lausche concludes, "when victory was impossible."

With the mention of President Eisenhower, Sen. Lausche recalled a strange episode in which he was actually considered for the Vice-Presidency by a Republican. In 1952, Vice-Presidential nominee Richard Nixon came close to being dropped from the ticket when a financial support fund established by supporters was disclosed. Before Nixon salvaged his career with the "Checkers" speech, Eisenhower suggested Sen. Lausche as a possible replacement, noting that the Senator, as a Catholic and a Midwesterner, would bring an unbeatable balance to the ticket. However, the idea was quickly dropped when aides noted the impracticality of having a Democrat as the Presidential heir apparent.

Eight years later, Sen. Lausche's hopes of ever being President ended in a casual conversation with a young Massachusetts senator. "In 1960, when John Kennedy ran for President, I was also being considered as a potential candidate," recalls the Senator. "One day, he walked from his seat on the Senate floor to my chair, which was two tiers below, and suddenly, out of the clear sky, he said, 'I'm going into Ohio to run for President.' I didn't anticipate that, but I took it as it was and allowed it to be the end of my dreams of ever being President."

Sen. Lausche describes John F. Kennedy as "affable, friendly and easy to be with." He is critical of President Kennedy's pledge, as part of the settlement of the Cuban Missile Crisis, that the United States would not invade Castro's Cuba. The Senator views the agreement as inconsistent with the Monroe Doctrine, which pledges resistance to foreign involvement in the Western Hemisphere, and notes that Cuban adventurism in Africa and elsewhere has been a festering problem ever since.

The Senator was more reticent in discussing Lyndon Johnson, whose wheeler-dealer style has been the subject of recent biographies. "Lyndon Johnson and I were never in complete agreement," says Sen. Lausche. "Lyndon Johnson was definitely imbued with the spirit of the old political bosses. He was extremely efficient in his period of being Majority Leader of the Senate, but he was a disciple of the tactics of the old political machines and I was not."

When asked to comment on Hubert Humphrey, Sen. Lausche made his fiscal conservatism clear. Humphrey, he says, "was genial, hard-working and... completely unmindful of the spending of taxpayers' money." Although he never had any discord with Sen. Humphrey, Sen. Lausche warned of the "destructive deficits" resulting from excessive government spending. He expressed particular admiration for former Virginia Sen. Harry F. Byrd, who recognized "the need to handle the taxpayers' money as a prudent person would his own."

As our conversation shifted from politics to his Slovenian background, Sen. Lausche brightened. "My father came to the United States from Hinde in 1889, my mother came from Dvorska Vas in 1891," he said. "My father was an entrepreneur of the richest color. When he was a young lad in Slovenia, in the Fall of the year, he would go to Vienna, Austria and there acquire a chestnut roasting machine. He would set up that roaster on the streetcorner and would sell to the pedestrians as they passed by those roasted chestnuts. That was his learning in risk-taking and in business."

Holmes Ave. Pensioners

On Wed., Oct. 12 the president of the Holmes Ave. Pensioners, Gus Petelinkar, opened the meeting and called for a moment of silence for our deceased members. There were 176 members present. Membership for 1988 is closed.

November election of officers has taken place after the meeting. Jennie Schultz, chairman of the nominating committee, along with committee members Ann and Ernie Pausic, Sue and Frank Pecjak, Caroline and Ann Stefancic presented a slate of candidates which will be voted upon at the Nov. 9th meeting.

Tickets will be given to members for our Christmas Dinner which will be on Wed., Dec. 14. By-laws were read and salaries for all officers were discussed and approved.

Jennie Schultz gave her report on the fall tour trip to Peak and Peak which was taken on Wed., Oct. 19th.

John Habat read a letter which Jennie Kapel read at our former meeting in Slovenian. It was translated by her daughter into English.

The hall was decorated by Jennie and Carl Schultz in the Halloween motif.

Our deepest sympathy to the family of Edward Cook, and to the Frank Kocin family. Frank Kocin was one of our oldest charter members.

Tickets were bought for the Nov. 25 dinner at the Slovenian Home on Holmes Ave.

Belated congratulations from the Holmes Ave. Pensioners to Frances Nemanich who was bestowed an honor during the annual Bishop Baraga Weekend in Marquette, Mich. for the cause of the Beatification of Bishop Baraga.

Frances has done a great job there for years and we are proud to have her as a member. She has been a willing worker for the club and it is well appreciated. Again, Frances, congratulations from the Holmes Pensioners.

The last trip of the year will be held on Nov. 30th to the Carousel Dinner Theater. Thank you Antoinette McGrath for explaining some of the issues to be voted upon in November.

After the meeting sandwiches and coffee were served. As the members left for home they received a trick or treat bag which was presented by Jennie and Carl Schultz.

Have a healthy, peaceful Thanksgiving.

Lausche

"When he came to the United States, within a short while after working in the steel mills, he opened a saloon and then, within a year or two, built a wooden structure which contained bowling alleys, a space for the saloon and a large room which he constructed with the object of accommodating weddings."

As a young man, the future Senator attended public schools and evening high school classes at the Central Institute. While he did not attend college, he studied law at the John Marshall School of Law and placed second in the State on the Bar Examination. He began practicing at age 25.

Looking back over his varied career and many offices, Sen. Lausche surprisingly says that his favorite position was his first. "No question about it," he says. "The position I enjoyed most was the judgeship. I loved the law. I will never understand why I resigned from the Common Pleas bench to run for Mayor."

A.H. Representative Wanted in Chicago

The American Home newspaper is looking for a representative in the Chicago and surrounding areas who would like to gather Christmas Greetings ads. If interested, please call Ameriška Domovina at 1-216-431-0628 for more information.

Krizman Upped

Jean Krizman of Richmond Heights has been promoted to chairman of volunteers by the American Red Cross.

That resignation, however, led to a legendary career and, as our conversation drew to a close, Sen. Lausche summarized his political philosophy.

"Throughout my whole career," he said, "I never tolerated any abuses practiced upon the general public. I resolved that in the executive positions I held there would be no preferential position given to any segment of the economy. My government would be 'a people's government' with every individual given equal consideration. It was my purpose to run the government under the guidance of my conscience and not allow any business institution, labor institution or professional institution to become the dominating influence in the State. There shall be no 'empirio in empirium,' no government within the government."

To the young, he gives both caution and encouragement about the world of politics.

Answer...

The young man who played baseball for the Gorik team in the St. Clair Hardball League in 1910 is our own Senator Frank J. Lausche.

"Politics is a sordid game," he says, "especially as it is practiced at present. The money available now to candidates is of such huge proportions that it inescapably leads to the breaking down of the moral fiber of the candidate."

"There will come a day," he continued, "when there will be a cleansing of the filth that is in occurrence now. There becomes a complete failure in government when legislative candidates cast their ballots on the basis of what they believe will bring votes rather than on the basis of doing what is right. Too many ask, 'Will this be beneficial to my efforts to be elected, or harmful?'"

Today, Sen. Lausche spends much of his time reading. His doctor won't let him play his beloved game of golf. "I read mainly," he says. "I leap from subject to subject, from books of poetry to books of religion and the Bible, to books of the history and roots of the United States especially. Books that depict the source of the great strength of our country."

As we left the Senate Dining Room, Sen. Lausche was greeted by Wisconsin Sen. William Proxmire, who told me that Sen. Lausche, a baseball star in his youth, was "one of the greatest natural athletes ever to serve in the Senate." To which Lausche beamed approvingly.

Our conversation concluded, we walked to the parking lot and Sen. Lausche, still fiercely independent at 93, drove himself home.

I have read in the Ameriška Domovina your endorsement of George Bush (another Reagan). This is how much they have accomplished for the United States: They made it the biggest deficit in the country's history. They cut the taxes for the millionaires and billionaires who have so much money they could pay off the deficit and have money left over.

In memory of my father who was for many years mayor (Župan) of mesto Metlika Belokrajina and Demokrat, I am not interested in your paper any more!

Agrees with Cerar

Editor:

I agree with Frank Cerar of Cleveland regarding the new policy of publishing the front section of the A.D. in American (English). I think it is a poor excuse to put the blame on the post office.

It rather seems to me that the A.D. is trying hard to be American. The American content cannot compare in importance with what is published in Slovenian.

When the American section will begin to publish news and comments of Slovenes both locally and abroad, then perhaps it will be time to make the change. In the meantime, the new policy will antagonize American Slovenes who have actually supported the publishing venture. How much have your young American subscribers contributed to the A.D.?

Not much. They do not care.

Your Slovenian editor, Dr. Rudolf Sušel, has been doing an outstanding job under very demanding circumstances. Being shoved to the back pages is indeed a poor reward for his efforts.

Better start looking for new subscribers if you expect to survive.

Less Fortunate Also Deserve Our Concern

As we approach the holiday season, beginning with Thanksgiving and continuing on through Christmas and New Year's, our thoughts are mostly on our families and how we can make the holidays especially enjoyable for them. This is only proper.

Yet we should not forget that there are many persons, many families, who do not share our good fortune, who are not in good health, are in economic trouble, may not have relatives or friends. Some of them are in our own community, such as some of the residents of the Slovene Home for the Aged, or persons in difficulty known to the pastors of our local Slovene parishes. Others are served by the various charitable organizations active in the broader community.

Each of us would do well to give time or money, or both, to help the less fortunate.

What a dreary day it was Nov. 2, the day of our Slovenian Pensioners Club of Euclid meeting. But then it was no different than most of our days this fall, at least so far. However, it was good to get out and mingle with our fellow club members at the Slovenian Society Home, really a cheerful place to be.

It was a fast-paced meeting, accomplishing much in a good, orderly fashion. Most important was our election of officers conducted by Angie Shine. Angie really does a superb job of conducting an election. Our officers for 1989 will be Frank Cesen, president; John Kausek, second vice-president; Helen Levstick, recording secretary; Eleanor Pavey, financial secretary and membership chairperson; and Emma Cesen, treasurer.

A few important messages for those not present: John Kausek would like the names of members who booked trips through the Kollander Travel Agency this year, 1988. Eleanor Pavey would like information about the following members who are 85 years of age or older: Frank Bresak, George Bole, Joseph Draz, Katie Gruden, Alice Intihar, Steve Marolt, and John Rozman. Please contact her at 531-4445 if you can furnish any information on someone on the list.

We will have our Christmas dinner at our December 7 meeting. Hope to see you there.

We were sad to hear of the passing of Molly Plut, George Ozanich, Anne Novak, Albert Tomle, and Amelia Krall. May they rest in peace and our condolences to their families.

Mollie Pike, Loretta Hlabe, Anna Filipic, and Alice Karberg volunteered to be funeral attendants for November. It seems that many of the volunteers are repeaters.

Our thanks to you for this commendable act of mercy. From the "thank you" notes received from the bereaved families, our representative at the funerals are very much appreciated, especially the eulogy by John Kausek.

Rose Lewis has just one more trip for this year. It is to Olgebay Park in West Virginia on December 5 to see the display of Christmas lights. There will be no trips during the months of January and February. Next year there will be day-long trips with the possibility of some longer than one-day trips. Sounds good knowing what Rose can do.

Our thanks to Bill Jansa who has been our sergeant-at-arms for many years. He has been most faithful to his commitment but now he has tendered his resignation. We shall miss him at the door as we come in but it won't surprise us to see him there talking to our new sergeant-at-arms, John Nosse.

Happy winners this month were Rose Arko and Joe Kodrich.

It's that time of year. Check your dues books to see if your 1988 dues have been paid.

Naše slovenstvo je vezano na silo ljubezni

Včasih režemo sami sebi, z najboljšim namenom... žile. To delamo na primer, kadar navdušujemo mladino, naj goji svoj materni jezik, pa v isti sapi dodajamo, naj store to kljub temu, da bo ta v nekaj rodovih gotovo utonil v tujem morju.

Pri tem smo prepričani, da govorimo objektivno, kakor da bi šlo za nekak nespremenljiv in splošen zakon, proti kateremu smo brez moći.

Vendar, ali smo ljudje res do take mere nebogljene žrtve okoliščin, da nam ne preostane drugega kakor vdano sprejeti »usojeni« nam potek? Ali ni iz krščanskega pa tudi splošno človeškega stališča treba poudariti prav nasproto, da nam na moralnem področju vrednot ni »usojeno« nič, česar sami nismo pripravljeni sprejeti?

Nobena vrednota se ne izgubi »po sili razmer« ali po »neizbežnem zgodovinskem razvoju« brez človekovega privoljenja. In slovenstvo ter z njim slovenski jezik je za Slovence brez dvoma vrednota. Čemu bi nam bila izguba te neizbežno usojena?

Slovenstvo bo živilo v Slovencih, na svoji zemlji in v svetu, dokler nam bo pomenilo vrednotu, dokler bomo zanj pripravljeni žrtvovati, dokler si bomo med seboj pomagali, dokler bo med nami doma vzajemnost, dokler bomo povezani z vezmi preteklosti in skupne slovenske bodočnosti.

Naše slovenstvo ni vezano ne na kolder ne na tek generacij, temveč na silo ljubezni, ki jo živimo in jo bodo živeli naši potomci. Če bi bilo med rojaki konec te življenske sile, če bi sebičnost uničila smisel za narodno občestvo, takrat nas bo »neizbežno« konec, bodisi na lastni zemlji bodisi kjerkoli. V nasprotnem primeru pa se nam ni batil zunanjih »slepih sil« razvoja.

Nikjer ni rečeno, da bodo otroci manj ljubili svoj rod kakor dedje. Res pa je, če očetje in matere niso več pripravljeni doprinašati žrtev za svoj narod, če ne čutijo ljubezni do svojega rodu, če ugodnost potrošniškega životarjenja ceni jo bolj od družinske dedičine, so s svojo sebičnostjo krivi, da njih otroci rastejo brez korenin. Pa še v tem primeru bo marsikdo od opeharjenih vnukov pričel sam iskati vrednote, ki so jih starši zavrgli.

Determinizem na osebnem in družbenem področju je v nasprotju z resnicico o človekovi svobodi. Človek, enkratna in neponovljiva božja stvar, gospodar zemlje po božji volji, ni podvržen nujnemu prilaganju večini. Nasprotno, način življenja in mišljenja drugih ni bil za samozavestnega človeka, predvsem pa še za kristjane, nikdar zadosten izgovor za lastno neodgovorno vedenje in vrednotenje.

Seveda ni lahko ohranjati svojega načina življenja, svojih vrednot sredi drugačnega sveta. A kaj velikega je še kdaj bilo lahko? Prav iskanje »lahkih poti« zavaja družbo v razkroj in človeka v oseben propad.

Neodgovorno »samo zadovoljstvo« pomeni za množico, ki ga sprejema, neke vrste poceni mamilo. Gre v resnici za degeneracijo družbe, katere ne smemo posnemati, marveč se ji moramo, na tem področju, upreti. Upor zmotnemu javnemu mnenju, modi, povprečnosti je pričetek osebne rasti. Vsako popuščanje od osebnega in lastnega pa je v bistvu beg pred odgovornostjo za zaupane nam vrednote. To pa kaže na pomanjkanje poguma, ki je moralna krepost.

Kadar bomo o odgovornosti za svoje vrednote in o so-odgovornosti za svoj rod govorili s tako gotovostjo, kakor delamo to pogosto o »neizbežnosti« narodne smrti, bomo pripomogli, da bo vsa naša pozornost obrnjena v življenje in rast. To pa bo imelo zdrave posledice pri posameznikih in po naših družinah, ki so osnovne celice vsega, tudi nardnega, biološkega, moralnega in kulturnega življenja.

Nekaj iz preteklosti...

Taborišče Ellera pri Perugiji, Italija

STOCKTON, Kalif. - Ta kratk uvod naj seznam bralcev o politično-vojaški situaciji, katere je nastala v rani spomladji 1941, ko je italijanska vojska zasedla Ljubljano in okolico.

Rodoljubi vseh slojev so takoj javno pokazali zasedbeni oblasti sovražni obraz kot začetek nekravavega upora. Že v nekaj tednih so se pojavili na cestah letaki, ki so pozivali meščane k bojkotu odredb, izdanih po fašistični oblasti. Na žalost, je bilo veliko žensk, katere so iskale in navezale stike z italijanskimi vojaki iz osebnih koristi; kasneje pa so se ti stiki spremenili v izdajstvo. Tudi več moških se je pridružilo temu umazanemu poslu. Takih primerov ni manjkalo.

Začetni znaki upora so delali zasedbeni oblasti precej preglavic in skrbi. Iz dneva v dan je postajal upor prožnejši, prešel je v razna sabotažna dejanja in kmalu se je rabilo orožje na obeh straneh. Razume se, da so nastale usodne posledice v na obeh straneh.

Kot prvi protiukrep je prišla policijska ura, sledile so aretacije. Italijani so izvedli tkimracije. Vojaštvo je pridrvelo s kamijoni in skoro hermetično zaprlo ulico enkrat tu, naslednji dan drugje, in odpeljalo vse moške v nekdanjo kasarno bivše jugoslovanske vojske. Zasljevanja so bila površna in krivična, saj so vidno vlogo igrali slovenski izdajalci, katere je narod imenoval »denunciant«.

Višek tega početja je bil, ko so Italijani začeli streljati nekatere aretiranice kot talce, v bližnji gramozni jami. Nedolžna krije tekla teden za teden. Naše vrste so se redčile. Vlak za vlakom je odpeljal naše upornike (med njimi sem bil tudi jaz) v Italijo.

V nadaljevanju od pred mnogimi meseci objavljenega prispevka me najdete v Elleri pri Perugiji. To je malo podeželsko mestece, okoliškemu prebivalstvu pomemben kraj, sicer zaradi bližnjega premogovnika. Samo kakih 10 minut hoda iz omemjene vasi je na malem gričku stalo delavsko koncentracijsko taborišče, kjer smo slovenski interniranci (internati civili) preživljali svojo negotovo usodo.

V ta kraj smo prispeli iz taborišča Gonars, kjer je oblast razpisala prostovoljno prijavo tako smo kalkurirali urnik posameznega delavca. S tem nam je bilo omogočeno, da so tisti fantje, kateri so iz enega ali drugega razloga ostali v taborišču prikriti, niso izgubili za tisti dan »prislužene mzdce«.

Nedaleč od koncentracijskega taborišča je na sosednjem griču stala hiša. V njej so stanovali Judje. Bili so pravzaprav prosti v gibaju v določenem prostoru. Javljeni so se moralni dvakrat tedensko na policijsko postajo radi kontrole. Te vrste pripor so imenovali konfinacijo. Stik z njimi je bil popolnoma nemogoč.

To taborišče je bilo bore malo poznano med slovenskim narodom. Zakaj so se poslužili internirancev za delo? Nikarkor ni bilo mogoče dobiti delavne sile, bila je vsa pod orožjem. Zanimivo je bilo, da je lastnik rudnika garantiral za interniranke, kar je vzbudilo med nami precej razmišljanje in pogovorov, vendar nismo prodrli v notranjost duše do lastnika.

Vse ni šlo gladko in lepo, saj smo bili vendar interniranci, sovražniki okupatorja naše domovine. Imeli smo v svoji sredini pecej vročih propagatorjev za mednarodni komunizem, kateri so skoro brez strahu nastopali poveljujoče med nami. Bili so »velikani« s povzdignjenimi pestmi in navdahnjeni za pretepe predvsem pri onih, kateri so odločno ključovali njihovim idejam in načrtom.

Za nas, kateri smo bili održani od rodne grude in nasilno odpeljani od najdražjih in od svobode brez dokazov krvide, naso niso očarale spremembe v zvezi z olajšanim trpljenjem. Bilo je odvratno vse, nespremenljivo, vendar smo morali pod ukazuječo disciplino v molku gledati »človeški pašnik« ograjen z bodečo žico.

Iz ljubezni in v skrbeh za naš maloštevilni slovenski narod in njega bodočnost, sem napisal pesmico v zadnjem tednu pred razsulom italijanske fašistične diktature, v taborišču. Zapiske sem nosil s seboj tudi v emigracijo, ne da bi imel v mislih načrt, da bom kdajkoli spomine uporabil in jih objavil:

Svojemu narodu

*Le kuj, kuj ti narod moj;
obroč izkuj v svobodno si državo —
prešel si zgodovino v krvi zakopano
zato bodočnost svojo venčaj
v slavo
s tribarvno — belo, modro, rdečo narodno zastavo.*

Napisani žalostni spomini so posvečeni slovenskim junakom, katere so fašistične krogle in njihovo nasilje poslane v prerani grob. Ni bilo sodnika, ne sodišča. Diktatura in njena moč sta vladala našemu narodu. Edina krivda teh nesrečnežev je bila v tem, da so bili v opoziciji ter kljubovali okupacijskim oblastem.

Waterloo is Right for You

Bert Kolar, president of the Waterloo Trade and Development Corp., of Fanny's Restaurant along with Ron Stakich of Stakich Furniture, show one of the 20 lighted Christmas trees which will be on display throughout the Waterloo business district during the Holiday Season. The 8-feet high trees are part of the $7,000 spent on outdoor decorations for the area this year. Everyone is urged to come to the Waterloo area and see all the beautiful decorations.

Waterloo Trade & Development Corp. Promotes Area

by Bert Kolar

President The Waterloo Trade and Development Corporation had a great year. Paid memberships were up — meeting attendance was up — and awareness of the need to become involved in our projects improved.

The Waterloo Festival brought thousands of visitors to our neighborhood and helped us generate a profit once again.

Storefront renovation programs are moving ahead.

A signage project will be initiated to identify our area.

Christmas decorations have been purchased and will be installed by Thanksgiving. About $7,000 will be spent on this project.

A coalition of neighborhood organizations will be suggested so that we may assist one another to head in the same direction.

Y.O.U. (Youth Opportunities Unlimited) helps youth in our Waterloo area by providing employment in summer.

The Waterloo Trade & Development Corporation is growing up. We are almost fifty members strong at this point in our history thanks to the efforts of a number of involved members and Sarah Tranchito. We are growing steadily and welcome residents, institutions, businesses and industry of all sizes and, of course, other tax-exempt organizations like ourselves.

In February of this year, we enjoyed a wonderful day showcasing the neighborhood at the Home & Flower Show. John Habat gathered an excellent display of our history for the walls of the booth. A number of our Italian residents brought a gorgeous display of pottery, hand-made lace, cut-work and glass.

Continuous entertainment was provided by Circle II Slovenian singers, a children's chorus, alternating with Murphy's Irish Dancers, the Junior Tamburitzans (Croatian Dancers) and The Italian Chorus (adult singers). This gathered large crowds around our booth during almost the entire day. While people were there, we gave them information about what the two development corporations were doing, safety tips and treats, and much neighborhood information. Watch for us again this year!

This year's Festival held in July was a financial success and is highly regarded as one of the best neighborhood and family oriented festivals going. We have a lot of work to do to strengthen our own merchant involvement. We're all working toward this end. Mark your calendars for July 20th thru July 23, 1989 for the next Waterloo Festival.

Our storefront program has dispensed close to $15,000 in the three commercial areas of E. 185th, St. Clair business strip, and the Waterloo commercial "T". This has generated over $70,000 worth of improvements and more merchants are realizing the tremendous opportunity being offered.

On Tuesday, September 13th we took Lolly the Trolley and visited Midtown Corridor, The Flats, Detroit-Shoreway, Slavic Village, Ohio City and the Lakeside Area Development Corporation to see the work of other development corporations. People from all segments of our community (institutions, businesses, residents, community groups, etc.) joined us for this adventure.

We soon realized the need for better storefront and street signage to attract people to our area. We're working to accomplish this goal now with input from a neighborhood artist.

We have an on-going safety program, in cooperation with the Cleveland Police Department, which includes Crime

Watch, Auto Watch, Neighborhood Watch, Child Watch and Business Watch to ensure a safer environment for everyone.

The Neighborhood Code-Enforcement Partnership Program has surveyed over 300 homes in the North Collinwood area with the cooperation of St. Jerome's Catholic Church, Collinwood Community Services Center, the City of Cleveland Department of Building & Housing, Collinwood Village Development Corporation and Waterloo Trade & Development. This program is primarily a volunteer, neighbor-to-neighbor effort to better the quality of our housing stock and commercial strips. It can and does work!

Summer jobs are available to our neighborhood youth through Youth Opportunities Unlimited, a privately-funded corporation. Our Christmas decorations for both Waterloo and Collinwood for this season promise to be the best ever.

Memberships are reasonable for both development corporations and open to all within our boundaries. Call Sarah Tranchito (531-6400) or Meg McGarry (531-1114)

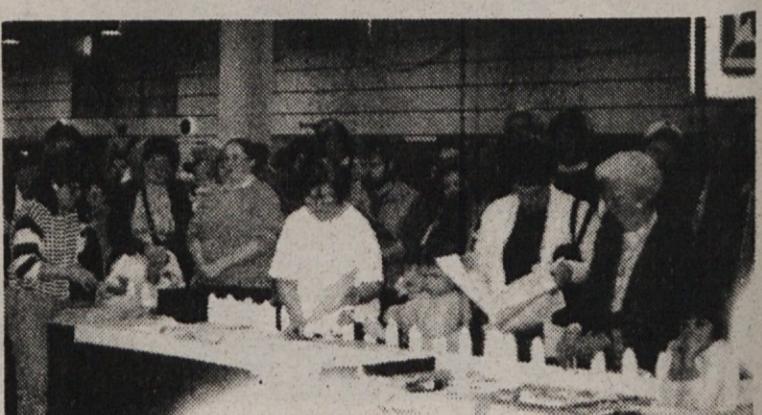

Next year's Summer Festival is July 20th thru July 23.

Murphy's Irish Dancers at the Home and Flower Show.

This area of Waterloo Rd. will be aglow with Christmas lights.

A big crowd visited our booth at Home and Flower Show.

Cleveland's Ward 11

by Michael D. Polensek
Cleveland City Councilman
Ward 11

The most important aspect of any city is the neighborhoods in which people live. Our Civic Vision is influenced by the businesses and housing that surround us. The very life of a city depends upon its housing stock and its local businesses. A well-maintained neighborhood attracts good homeowners and businesses, while a depressed one repels them.

A neighborhood must attract new home owners while at the same time keep its long-time committed residents.

The same holds true for businesses as well, and that is why Cleveland's Collinwood area is unique because we have initiated programs which are meant not only to stabilize our neighborhood housing stock and improve it; but also programs to enhance and help our local businesses.

The first being the Collinwood Neighborhood Partnership, which was funded through the Community Development Block Grant Program and my efforts which originated through a town hall meeting sponsored by St. Jerome's Catholic Church.

This program, in conjunction with the City of Cleveland's Building and Housing Division, will be walking through targeted areas of Ward 11 looking for housing code violations (such as peeling exterior paint, broken steps, junk cars, etc.).

Once the violations are found, the inspectors will work with the homeowners in trying to correct these problems. If the homeowners are in violation, they will receive a notice in the mail explaining the violation.

We are using volunteers from the community for these surveys and by using this type of approach, neighbors will be helping neighbors — working together to help make our ward a better place to live.

The Collinwood Neighborhood Partnership Program also helps to find absentee landlords who refuse to maintain their property so we can force them to put money back into their properties.

Besides the C.N.P.P., we have other programs such as Free Weatherization, Low Interest Home Repair Loans — such as the 312 Loan or C.A.S.H. Loans — and the outstanding free Paint Program which has resulted in several hundred homes being painted in our community in just the last few years.

But, as we know, housing is only half of a neighborhood and we have been very fortunate to have outstanding commercial and business areas as well.

Take for example, East 185th Street, which we more commonly refer to as the Old World Plaza. Here we have seen a tremendous revitalization process take place which has resulted in East 185th Street being recognized as the best commercial strip within the City of Cleveland outside of the Downtown area.

The Old World Plaza Development Corporation, its officers and members have distinguished themselves by holding yearly the largest ethnic festival anywhere within Cuyahoga County. And now with the growth of the Collinwood Village

'Aiming to be the Best'

Development Corporation, which takes in the area north and south of St. Clair Avenue in the East Collinwood area, couples with the Waterloo Trade and Development Corporation — which encompasses the Historic Waterloo-Euclid Beach area — we have the makings of one of the finest business consortiums anywhere assembled in the City of Cleveland.

Within just the last year, we have seen many new businesses relocate and open in our community such as K-Mart and the New Euclid Beach Plaza which has added 30,000 square feet of new retail space to Lake Shore Boulevard. Just as we have attracted new retail businesses, we have also been successful in bringing in industrial concerns such as Moore Plastics and Burger Industries which is out of New Jersey.

In the future we plan to continue our Commercial Storefront Renovation Program which has resulted in many of our retail businesses having their storefronts completely renovated and will continue to emphasize the Collinwood Enterprise Zone which

A Note from

MR. FRANK YANKOVIC

From the desk of:

Frank Yankovic
America's Polka King

What it means to me to receive the Greater Cleveland Polka Hall of Fame Award:

Having played the accordion, promoting polka music, Cleveland style, for the past 58 years, and although I was the first to be inducted into the IPA Polka Hall of Fame and first inductee into the Ironworld USA Polka Hall of Fame and the first to receive the highest honor by winning the Grammy in 1986 for the polka industry, I graciously accept this honor.

I have been honored in many cities and states throughout this great land of ours but to finally see that the people of Cleveland, where I first began, have recognized what I have tried to do to promote polka music, gives me a great deal of satisfaction.

I only hope our younger generation will try to continue what I have started for the polka music and they too will be an inspiration to others as I hope I have been.

—Frankie Yankovic

Polka Hall of Fame

Happy Thanksgiving
Let us give thanks on this glad day
For friendships that have blessed our way...

City of Euclid

A CITY OF SUPERIOR SERVICES
David M. Lynch, Mayor • 585 East 22nd Street • Euclid, Ohio 44123 • (216) 289-2700

November, 1988

Dear Citizens of Northeast Ohio:

The great City of Euclid is proud to be the home of the National Polka Hall of Fame. Euclid has always been proud of its great ethnic heritage and those members of our community who work so tirelessly to preserve it. Now, with the Polka Hall of Fame located at the Euclid Civic Centre, we have tangible evidence of our community's strong commitment to the richness of cultural traditions. The City of Euclid is also pleased to have the Hall of Fame because of what it means to the success of the Euclid Civic Centre. With an organization such as the Hall of Fame serving as such a firm anchor association, other groups are now attracted to utilize the Civic Centre for their own activities. This has helped to enhance the Civic Centre's reputation as a place for cultural and artistic expression.

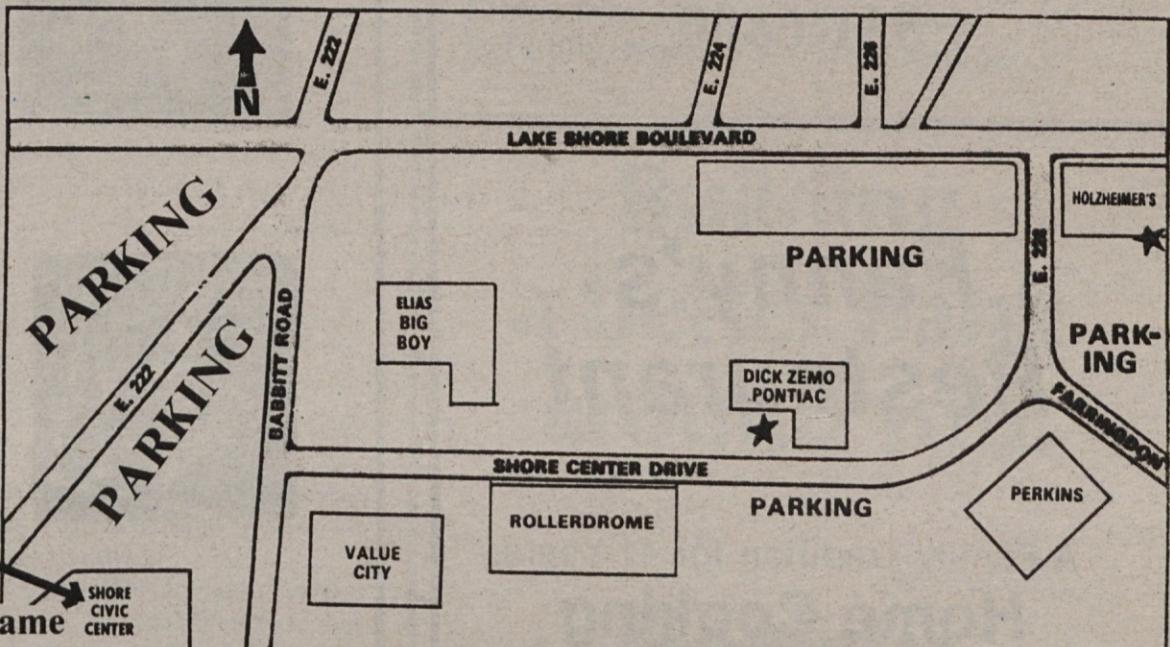

I want to personally thank Hall of Fame Chairman Tony Petkovsek for his energetic and professional hand in establishment of the Polka Hall of Fame in Euclid. Never before has so much been done by one man in the interests of educating, enlightening, and entertaining citizens in a way that protects and promotes ethnic culture.

May God be with you, Polka Hall of Fame. The City of Euclid is behind you and is proud to add its efforts to assure your success.

Sincerely,

David M. Lynch
Mayor

Matt Hoyer, Pioneer Polka Accordionist

Hoyer Trio began to record their beloved music on gramophone records. In doing this, they were the first Slovenian-American band to do so.

From 1919 to 1930 the Hoyer Trio recorded a total of 52 records, 25 each with Columbia and RCA Victor and two with Okeh Records. When the U.S. went into a deep economic depression, the famous brothers were forced to halt recording.

Matt, in addition to mastery of the accordion, was also a humorist and was sometimes called the Slovenian Will Rogers. In the early years, homesick immigrants were buoyed by his witty remarks and musical offerings. Because of his talents, Matt was always at ease when attending weddings, socials and other doings.

When his brothers Frank and Eddie left Cleveland to live in New Orleans and California, Matt Hoyer secured two new sidemen, his son Teddy Hoyer and Frank Culovec on the banjo-guitar.

In gleanings over the list of Hoyer's recordings, it is evident all the songs are of a similar theme, about life in the villages of Slovenia. The musical is lively and melodic, full of clarity and happy rhythms.

The Hoyer Trio, pioneers of Slovenian polkas and waltzes in America are worthy of recognition for all their enormous contributions in the domain of Slovenian folk music. Brothers Matt, Frank and Eddie Hoyer were the vanguard of today's musicians who follow in their own stylings, yet in a manner which is still very Slovenian in motif and interpretation.

Slovenian Americans, for this reason, will preserve for our future generations the songs of our pioneer-musician, Matt Hoyer, polka grandfather of Slovenian music in America.
