

POSLOVENIL DR. A. R.

CARSKI SEL

Odkar je prišla s svojimi ciganji v Omsk in se je ondi sešla z Ivanom Ogarevom, ga ni nič več zapustila. Znano je bilo, kako sta se slučajno srečala Marfa Strogova. Bojanen Ivan Ogareva, da bi carski sel utegnil skrivaj potovati po Sibiriji se ji je torej zdelo popolnoma upravičena. Zato bi bila mogla ujeti Marfa Strogovo mučiti z vso indijansko prekanjenostjo, samo da bi ji izselila njeno skrivnost. Toda Ivan Ogarev še ni hotel stare Sibirke prisiliti, da govor. Sangara je moralca čakati. In čakala je, ne da bi jo izgubila izpred oči. Skrivaj je opazovala vsako njeno kretnjo, pazila na vsako njen besedo in jo gledala noč in dan, samo da bi slišala iz njenih ust besedo "sin." Toda Marfa Strogova je bila za vse tako brezutna in hladnokrvna, da je bil dotedaj ves njen trud zaman.

Na znamenje trobent sta se podala poveljnik tatarskega topništva in emirjevi višji konjar v sijajnem spremstvu usbeških konjenikov pred taboriščem, da sprejmeta Ivana Ogareva. Ko sta se mu približala, sta mu izkazala največjo čast in ga povebila, da ju spremija v šotor kana Feofarja. Miron in hladno kakor vedno je odvrnil Ivan Ogarev vljuden pozdrav visokih dostojanstvenikov, ki sta mu prišla naproti. Običen je bil zelo preprosto; vendar pa je bil toliko predren, da je iz gole nesramnosti nosil še vedno obleko ruskega častnika.

Prav tedaj, ko je potegnil konja za vajeti, da bi ga pognal v taborišče, se je Sangara prenila skozi spremstvo in obstala pred njim.

"Nič?" je vprašal Ivan Ogarev.

"Nič."

"Potri!"

"Ali se bliže ura, ko boš prisil starko, da govor?"

"Bliža se, Sangara."

"Kdaj bo morala povedati?"

"Ko bom v Tomsku."

"In kdaj pridemo tja?"

"V treh dneh."

Sangari so se čudno začerkile velike, črne oči in z lahнимi karki se je umaknila nazaj.

Ivan Ogarev je spodobel svojega konja in odjedil s tatarskimi častniki, ki so ga spremjevali, k emirjevemu šotoru.

Kan Feofar je pričakoval svojega namestnika. V njegovem šotoru je bil zbran veliki svet, v katerem so bili varuh kraljevega pečata, hodža in nekateri drugi dostojanstveniki.

Ivan Ogarev je skočil s konja, stopil v šotor in se ustavil pred emirjem.

Kan Feofar, ki je imel štiri deset let, je bil visoke postave, precej bledih lic, lokavih oči in divjega obrazja. Črna, valovita brada mu je segala čez prsi. Nosil je vojaško obleko, in sicer iz zlate in srebrne žice spleteno oklepno srajco, od dragih kamnov lesketajoč se pas, kakor jatagan, ki se je iskril od samih demantov. Takšen torej je bil tatarski Sardanapal, neomejeni vladar, ki je razpolagal z življenjem in imetjem svojih podložnikov, kakor se mu je ljubilo, in ki so ga v Buhari po starodavnini imenovali "emirja."

Ko je vstopil Ivan Ogarev, so dostojanstveniki obsedeli na zatočevnih blazinah. Feofar pa je vstal z dragocenega divana v ozadju šotoru čigar tla so bila pokrita z debelo buharsko preprogo.

Približal se ją Ivanu Ogarevu in ga poljubil. Vsakdo je vedel, kaj to pomeni. S poljubom ga je napravil za predsednika velikega sveta in ga začasno postavil celo nad hodžo.

Nato je dejal Ivanu Ogarevu: "Vprašati te nimam ničesar. Govori, Ivan! Tu boš našel ušesa, ki te bodo pazljivo poslušala."

"Takšir," je odgovoril Ivan Ogarev, "poslušaj, kaj ti bom povedal" (Takšir: Veličanstvo.)

Ivan Ogarev je govoril tatarsko s primernim poudarkom in zanosom, kakor je navada v vzhodnih jezikih.

"Takšir, nimam časa za prazne besede. Kaj sem storil kot poveljnik tvojih čet, ti je znano. Črti ob Išimu in Irtišu sta v naših rokah in turkmanski jezdec lahko kopljeno svoje konje v njunih vodah, ker so postale tatarske. Kirgiške orde so se dvignile na poziv kana Feofarja in glavna sibirška cesta je tvoja od Išima do Tomske. Svoje čete moreš torej poslati ali proti iztoku, kjer solnce vzhaja, ali pa proti zapadu, kjer solnce zahaja."

"In če grem s solncem?" je vprašal emir, ki ga je poslušel, ne da bi s kako potezo na obrazu izdal svoje misli.

"Iti s solncem," je odgovoril Ivan Ogarev, "se pravi, udariti proti Evropi, si naglo osvojiti sibirške pokrajine od Tobolska do uralškega pogorja."

"In če grem tej nebeški plamenici nasproti?"

"To se pravi, pod tatarsko oblast s praviti z Irkutskom vred najbogatejše pokrajine v srednji Aziji."

"Toda vojska petrograjskega sultana?" je vprašal kan Feofar in s tem čudnim naslovom zaznamenoval ruskega carja.

"Te se ni treba batiti ne na vzhodu in ne na zahodu," je odgovoril Ivan Ogarev. "Vpad se je izvršil naglo in Irkutsk ali Tobolsk bosta prešla v tvojo oblast, preden jima bo ruska vojska mogla prihiteti na pomoč. Carjeve čete so bile poražene pri Kchivanu in bodo poražene povsod, kjer se bodo bojevale tvoje preti blaznim vojakom od zahoda."

"In kakšen svet ti narekuje tvoja vnema za tatarsko stvar?" je vprašal emir po kratkem odmoru.

"Moj svet," je živahnod odgovoril Ivan Ogarev, "se nahaja v predmestju Bronx, N. J., kjer se je zastopnik Lindbergha pogajal s zastopnikom banditov, ki so odpeljali Lindberghovega otroka. Razgovor je trajal 15 minut in kmalu zatem je plačal Lindbergh $50,000 od kupnine. Na levi je poveljnik državne policije države New Jersey, ki se sedaj nahaja v Londonu, kjer išče sled za ugrabljenim otrokom.

Ivan Ogarev je nekaj trenutkov opazoval oboj ujetnika, ki voril Ivan Ogarev, "je ta, da koraš proti solncu! Po travni vzhodnih step naj se paso turkmanski konji. Polastiti se je treba Irkutska, glavnega mesta vzhodnih pokrajin, in z njim talnika, ki je vreden vse dežele. Ker ne moremo ujeti carja, mora priti njegov brat, veliki knez, v tvoje roke!"

To je bil zadnji cilj, po katerem je hrepelen Ivan Ogarev.

Kdor bi ga bil slišal, bi bil mislil, da je krvolochen potomec slovečega paropija Štefana Razina, ki je v 18. stoletju ropal po južni Rusiji. Polastiti se velikega kneza in ga streli brez usmiljenja, to bi bilo zadoščenje za njegovo sovrašto. Nepravilno v osvojitvo Irkutska pa bi tudi vsa vzhodna Sibirija prešla v tatarsko oblast.

"Tako se bo zgodilo, Ivan," je odgovoril Feofar.

"Kako se glasi tvoje povelje, takšir?"

"Naš glavni stan se še danes presveti v Tomsk."

Ivan Ogarev se je priklonil in cdšel s huš-begom, da izvrši emirjevo povelje.

Ko je hotel zasesti konja, da odjedzi k sprednjim stražam, je nastal v bližini hrup, in sicer v onem delu taborišča, kjer so bili ujetniki. Slišali so se klici in nato dva ali trije strelji. So se li ujetniki hoteli pobunili in uiti, pa je bila kar na celo udrušena njihova nameira?

Ivan Ogarev in huš-begi sta stopila nekoliko korakov naprej.

Pred njima sta se pojavila dva moža, ki ju vojaki niso mogli zadržati. Ne da bi koga kaj vprašal, jim je huš-beg z roko del znamenje, ki je velelo, naj ju umore. Glavi obeh ujetnikov sta bili že na tem, da se zakotljata po tleh, ko je izpregovoril Ivan Ogarev nekaj besed in z njimi ustavil sabljo, ki ju je vprebral.

"Ali želite dovoljenja, da spremite spremstvo naša vojaška podjetja?"

"Zahtevala svojo prostost, to je vse!" je odgovoril kratko angloški poročevavec.

"Svobodna sta, gospode," je odgovoril Ivan Ogarev, "in radoveden sem na vajino poročila v Daily Telegraphu."

"Gospod," je odgovoril Harry Blount kar najbolj mogoče hladno, "vsaka številka stane šest pencev brez poštne."

Nato se je obrnil proti svojemu tovarišu, ki je očvidno odobraval njegov odgovor.

Ivan Ogarev niti trenil ni z očesom, ampak je zajahal konja, se postavil pred svoje spremstvo in kmalu izginil v obliku pravilne oblike obiljenih obiskov.

"No, gospod Jolivet, kaj mislite o polkovniku Ivanu Ogarevu, vrhovnem poveljniku tatar-

Harry Blount in Alcide Jolivet, "da je hušbeg napravil kaj lepo krenjo, ko je dal povelje, da naju obglavljo."

Naj je že Ivan Ogarev oprstil poročevavca iz kakršnegakoli nagiba, glavno je bilo, da sta bila svobodna in sta se moga po svoji volji gibati po bojnem polju. In prav nič nista mislila na to, da bi ga zapustila. Mržnja, ki sta jo imela nekdaj drug do drugega, se je umaknila izkrenemu prijateljstvu. Razmere so ju zbljajne in nič več se nista hotela ločiti. Grda ljubomnost med njima je bila iztrebljena za vselej. Harry Blount ni mogel pozabiti, kaj je bil dolžan svojemu tovarišu, ta se pa na vse to niti spominjati ni hočel. To zbljajanje jima je olajševalo poročevalsko delo in je bil v prid njunim bravcem.

"Kaj bava sedaj napravila s svojo prostostjo?" je vprašal Harry Blount.

"Izrabila jo bova, presneto izrabila!" je odgovoril Alcide Jolivet.

"Mirno pojdeva v Tomsk, da vidive, kaj se tam godi."

"Dotlej, da se bova mogla pridružiti kakemu ruskemu arménu zboru, kar se bo bržkone zgodilo v kratkem, ali ne?"

"Popolnoma prav, dragi moj Blount, Človek se ne sme preveč potatariti. Vseeno je lepše opravilo onih, ki z orožjem širijo tudi omiku; zakaj jasno je, da bi narodi v srednji Aziji s tem vpadom ne pridobili prav ničesar, pač pa vse izgubili. Toda Rusi ga bodo znali odbiti. To je samo vprašanje časa."

Dočim je Ivan Ogarev ob svojem prihodu osvobodil Alcida Joliveta in Harryja Blonta, je spravil Mihaela Strogova v veliko nevarnost. Ako bi se namreč slučajno srečala, bi Ivan Ogarev v njem skoraj gotovo spoznal potnika, katerega je tako sirovo udaril na išmelski postaji. Četudi je Mihael Strogov takrat požrl kruto žalitev, ki bi je ne bil požrl v nobenem drugom slučaju, bi Ivan Ogarev vendarle lahko postal pozoren in bi mu preprečil njegov načrt.

Prihod Ivana Ogareva je bil v tem oziru za Mihaela Strogova dokaj neprijeten. Nasprotno pa je bilo zanj zelo ugodno v Daily Telegraphu.

"Gospod," je odgovoril Harry Blount kar najbolj mogoče hladno,

"vsaka številka stane šest pencev brez poštne."

Mrtvec na mostu

Za "Ameriško Domovino" priredil M. U.

Ivanka se je nalahko prikloplila in pojasnjevala: "Gilbert Wylie je moj zaročenec. Poslal mi je pismo, v katerem mi sporoča, da po naročilu gospoda Gilmartina za nekaj časa izginja in —"

"O, o, sedaj se spominjam," jo je prekinil Meldrum, "mladi inženir, kateremu so ukradli načrte."

"Da, o tem govorim."

"Gospodična, zelo mi je žal, a vam vsekakor ne morem povediti, kje se sedaj nahaja."

"Ali naj to pomeni, da res ne morete ali da samo nočete?"

"Kar sem dejal: Ne morem ker ne vem, kje je. Nadinspektor Gilmartin mi tega — najbrže namenoma — ni povedal in potem ste prepričani, da je imel zato dovolj vzroka."

"Ne more biti dovolj tehtnega vzroka, da se ga pred meno skriva," je dejalo odločno dekle.

"Vem edinole, kar mi je Gilmartin povedal in med tem tuči, da je bilo mlaščičevu življenje v zelo veliki nevarnosti. In lahko se zanesete, da je resnično tako, kadar vam to reče nadinspektor Gilmartin."

Ivanka je ugovarjala: "Vendar zakaj bi ga skrivali pred menom?"

"Mar želite, da ga kdo izsledi potom kakrškega vašega pisma, pa da ga umorijo?"

Dekle je molčalo nekaj časa, nato pa dejalo: "Tedaj moram govoriti z gospodom Gilmartinom. Kje je?"

"Odsoten je," je odvrnil Meldrum.

"Seveda, da je odsoten, ampak kje je?" je siliла Ivanka. "Saj ne more biti daleč. Anglija vendar ni tako velika."

"I, seveda ni. Takšen košček zemlje bi lahko ukradli v Združenih državah, pa bi je še nihče ne pogrešal," se je nasmejal podravnatelj.

"O, nehajte, gospod Meldrum," je odločno dejala gospodična Cannan. "Čemu me hočete sedaj podučevati zemljepisja? Hočem vedeti, kje je sedaj gospod Gilmartin in ostanem tu, dokler mi ne poveste."

"Nu, gospodična Cannan," je odvrnil enako odločno. "Razumeti morate moje stališče. V prvi vrsti bi bilo zelo neumestno da bi komurkoli povedal, kje se kak uradnik nahaja službeno, drugič pa ste vi lahko zaročenka gospoda inženirja, kakor trdite — morebiti pa tudi ne."

"O," je vzkliknila užaljeno gospodična Cannan, "kaj pa mislite s tem?"

Meldrum jo je natančno opazoval. Sicer ni v resnicu dvomil, da ne bi bila Wylie-ja zaročenka, vendar je pa računal, da možnostjo, da skuša tolpa razkriti njega skrivališče. Dekle vsekakor ni izgledalo, da bi bil možno kaj takega, a v sledi Gilmartinove varčnosti v besedah, tudi ni do sedaj ničesar o njej slišal. Pa tudi ko bi bil vendar bi morali biti že neizbežno tehtni vzroki, ki bi ga prisili, da bi povedal, kje se pa tovarši službeno nahaja.

Premislite, gospodična Cannan," je dejal sočutno.

Ivanka je prikimala obupano, ko pa vzkliknila: "O, saj me poznava Gilbertova gospodinja, ki bi lahko potrdila mojo istovetnost. Poleg tega pa sem tudi jaz napravila z gospoda Gilmartina risbo moža, ki je ukradel Gilbertove načrte. Gotovo ste sliko videli. Saj vam jo lahko popišem, popišem vam papir — pa celo še enkrat vam lahko narišem možaka, tu, pričo vas."

Meldrum se je smejal: "O, vi ste oni umetnik!"

"Da, gospod Meldrum — in sevedoval gospod Gilmartin," je dejal Gibbs. "Ako pa nočete zslisati Ivanka — menim gospoda Fu — vsekakor —"

"Potrite trenutek!" Podravnatelj je pritisnil na gumb električnega zvonca. "Pošlite Wilsona semkaj," je ukazal vstopivemu slugu.

Kitajec je sedel na stolu popolnoma nepremično, a roke je imel prekrizane v svojih širokih rokavih. Stražmojster Williams je vstopil s knjižico v roki.

"Sedite tu-sem," je dejal Meldrum ter se umaknil s svoje stolice, "zapišite vsako besedo." Nato se je okrenil h Kitajcu:

"Sedaj, gospod Fu, pričnite."

"Želite, da jaz pripovedujem, ali me boste vi izpraševali?" je vprašal Fu Wong Huj.

"Povejte sami, kar veste. Ako pa nam ne bo kaj jasno, vas bom vprašal."

"Vse je zelo jasno. Ali ste gočovi, Wilson?" je vprašal Kitajec.

Stražmojster se je v pritrdilo samo nasmehljal.

Popolnoma se lahko nanj zanesemo," je pošepetal Gibbs Meldrumu.

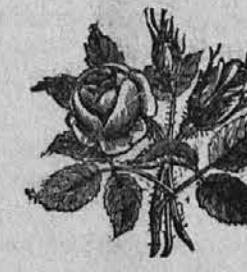

"Inšpektor Gibbs me pozna," je pričel Fu Wong Huj. "Jaz sem Fu Wong Huj, trgovec s čajem in dišavami v Grenade ulici. Sinoč sem šel iz trgovine po Three Colt cesti. Naenkrat sem obstal, ker zadelo se mi je, da čujem nekje iz tal neko petje, nekako sledče petje."

Fu Wong Huj je s precej prijetnim tenorjem ponovil petje, ki ga je čul in ki je vsekakor bilo podobno psalmu. "Dejal sem si: Tu v bližini ni nobene kristjanske cerkve, samo prazna hiša — pa sem še dalje poslušal. Petje pa je kmalu utihnilo, čul sem pa nato neko govorico, ki je nisem razumel."

"Trenutek samo," je pripomnil Meldrum. "Dejali ste, da je petje prihajalo iz tal? Kako mislite to?"

"Sej bom povedal," je nemoteno nadaljeval Kitajec. "Obstal vidiel zamreženo okno, zelo umazano zamreženo okno. Zopet sem prisluškoval. Zaklical sem: Kdo je? Nihče pa ni odgovoril. Slišal sem le moškega, ki je goval. Pogledal sem steno — nimir z glasom, kakor da molči cesar! Pogledal sem navzdol in kristjansko molitev."

Proving Its Worth

IT LOOKS very much as if the ship of Essdeeze is heading for that port called Better Times. And at the helm you'll find Frank Surtz, president of the newly organized Central Committee of the English-conducted lodges of the union. Officers of the ship are represented by the other four officers of the committee, and the crew, the representatives of the respective lodges.

At the organization meeting last Friday evening, enthusiasm ran high and everything pointed to a most successful first year for the group, meaning, of course, that the individual lodges will flourish and grow under the committee's watchful guidance, and soon will be basking in the sunlight of popularity and prestige.

Ever since the introduction of the SDZ News, the formation of such a group has been the goal of the staff. Now with this dream realized we feel that we can face the supreme board with some feeling of pride and say, "a little over two months has the News been in existence and in that short time we have been instrumental in bringing about a better union between the English-conducted lodges than ever before in the history of the Slovenian Mutual Benefit Association."

At the last convention, when the delegates voted for an organ for the English-conducted lodges, there were many who were not in favor of the move, feeling that the results would not justify the expenditure. Undoubtedly some of them are already convinced that the introduction of the publication was not such a bad one after all. Others remain, however, who are yet to be shown that the move was beneficial. Perhaps they, too, will be convinced if the Essdeeze election turns out as successful as it gives every indication of doing, and the newly-organized Central Committee proves as meritorious as expected.

The past two months has seen more action, more enthusiasm and more fraternal spirit on the part of the English-conducted lodges than ever before in the history of the organization—even in the days of the Baseball league.

It is our candid opinion that inside of two years, our English-conducted groups will be pointed out by the supreme boards of other fraternal organizations as the models after which their young branches should pattern themselves.

Check us up if we're wrong!

A Good Man

THE SOAPBOX orator is more than pleased with the selection of Frank Surtz, attorney, social worker and most active club member, as the president of the Central Committee.

Frank is an energetic and tireless leader and an inspiration to his fellow workers. "It can't be done," isn't a part of Frank's vocabulary. A most engaging personality, he exudes pep and ambition, and his active interest in any project practically assures its success.

The young members could not have made a better selection and we hope that this Central Committee will be another successful undertaking with which Frank Surtz has been connected.

WEEK'S ACTION IN ELECTION CAMPAIGN CENTERS ON GUBERNATORIAL RACE IN ACTIVE MODERN CRUSADERS STATE

Votes Polled by Mary Milner Help Brother Ignatius Keep Lead Over Louise Kochman in Race for Governor; James Perat Increases Presidential Lead

In every political campaign, it's organization that counts. This is amply proven in the showing of the Modern Crusaders in the Essdeeze Election Campaign. Every week sees this group creeping farther into the lead as their well-oiled political machine goes cruising through the streets of their community on a house-to-house canvass.

James Perat, presidential candidate from that state, is now well in front as a result of his own individual efforts and those of his active cohorts. With Miss Mary Milner setting the pace for the entire country as she weekly polls many new members for her state, the Modern Crusaders is fast approaching his heavy quota and gives every indication of passing it before the campaign terminates.

Should he succeed, it will mark the first time that an English-conducted lodge has doubled its membership within the space of six months. With only three weeks of the campaign passed, Modern Crusaders State has reached the 25 per cent. mark.

Within the state, too, action is quite heavy and a frantic scurry for ballots is keeping the gubernatorial race ever in an uproar. As the SDZ News goes to press, Ignatius Milner from the city of Milneria holds an edge over Louise Kochman.

Balloting in other states was again negligible as leaders and candidates bemoaned their inability to get their ward captains and heelers going.

Campaign meetings with members of the Central Committee on hand to pep things up are expected to get the band wagons moving and soon election headquarters will see many changes in the standings of the various candidates.

Complete returns of all candidates will be given in the SDZ News as soon as all states are heard from.

ANNIVERSARY DANCE

The second anniversary dance of the Comets lodge, No. 54, will be held Saturday, May 14, at Strumbly's Hall, E. 222d and Bliss Rd.

All members of the SDZ are requested to keep this date in mind and attend this social of the hardworking Euclid lodge. Red's Rhythm Riders will furnish music for the occasion, plenty of refreshments will be on hand to satisfy all needs. A prize waltz will be one of the features at this dance. Tickets are selling for 35 cents, and may be procured from any of the members. Make it your point to attend.

Recuperating

Anthony Vardian, one of the active members of the Modern Crusaders lodge, No. 45 SDZ, is recuperating from a foot injury which has confined him to his bed for the past few months.

The officers and members of the lodge wish him a hurried recovery. They know that Tony misses his dancing and his sports, and the Modern Crusaders miss his.

Going to the meeting of the Magic City Juniors at Barberton? Be sure and be there promptly at 6:30.

AN EDITORIAL

By JOE A. ROSA
Third Vice President

Almost every issue of this paper has carried a plea for more news. A few adventurous souls have answered this plea; for the most part, it has remained unheeded. Already in its third month of existence, the SDZ News has yet to carry news of a few of the lodges. A pitifully small number have faithfully contributed each week. Be that as it may, the fact remains that the page must be filled.

Thus far the editor and his staff have endeavored to give you an interesting paper, hoping that the members would soon awaken to the fact that this is really their paper. They have given you a fraternal newspaper which is second to none and they hope to continue giving it to you week after week. As yet their dream of an issue filled with contributed articles remains a thing of the future. In the meantime the paper must be issued, and each issue must meet with the approval of its readers. Which is no small order.

Your help has been solicited time and again; the News has pleaded, threatened and cajoled,

DELEGATES FROM ENGLISH-CONDUCTED LODGES NOMINATE ACTIVE CLAIRWOOD MEMBER AS HEAD OF CENTRAL GROUP

James Perat, Betty Lebar, Martin Valetich and Antonia Schiberl Other Officers of Newly-Organized Group; Activities for Lodges Discussed at Meeting Friday

At the organization meeting of the Central Committee of the English-conducted lodges of the Slovenian Mutual Benefit Association at headquarters last Friday evening, the delegates of the respective lodges unanimously elected Frank Surtz of the Clairwoods, president.

Supporting him in the role of officers are James Perat, Modern Crusaders, first vice president; Betty Lebar, Comets, second vice president; Martin Valetich, Modern Crusaders, secretary, and Antonia Schiberl, Modern Crusaders, treasurer.

Immediately following the election of officers, plans for future activities of the organization were discussed. Primarily interest was shown in the sponsoring of a pinochle tournament. A committee of Frank M. Jaksic, chairman; James Perat and Steve Rackar, was appointed by the president to outline full particulars for the tourney. According to tentative arrangements, preliminary tournaments will be held in lodges to determine the finalists who will compete against each other in the championship joust to be held at the SDZ headquarters in the Slovenian National Home building.

Arrangements were also made, whereby all parties interested would meet at 6:30 this evening at headquarters to attend the meeting of the Magic City Juniors at Barberton, O. Anyone desiring to accompany the group is requested to be on hand at headquarters, and if possible, to furnish their own transportation. All available machines are to be pressed into service so that all desiring will be able to make the trip. An accordion player will accompany the delegation.

The meeting was brought to a close with a discussion of the Essdeeze Election Campaign. James Perat, leading presidential candidate, expressed himself as being proud of his lead, but that he believed he was capable of withstanding quite a bit more opposition and hoped that the others would soon get under way and supply it for him.

Following the meeting a delicious luncheon was served by supreme board members in the basement and informal discussions occupied the committee until late in the evening.

ASSESSMENTS DUE

Monday is the 25th of the month, the day to pay your assessment. Don't overlook this important detail, by paying your assessments regularly you assist in the progress of your lodge and organization. Keep up with your payments, if at all possible, and you will be taken care of in case of sickness or other misfortunes. A good active member is recognized by his regular payment of lodge dues.

If, in the future, the supreme board notices SDZ lodges showing an interest in sports they will be forced to form their

Ray J. Grdina Says

Bound to Lose

This game of life is a funny thing. You, as a player in the game, are bound to lose—at some time or another. No one ever goes on winning forever. Champion or no champion, there must come a time when someone is going to beat you. It may come before you have reached your peak—it may come later, but it will come.

Most millionaires have experienced penniless days. Many have amassed a fortune only to have it wiped out overnight and then come back stronger than ever to create an estate greater than the first. Champions of the sport world eventually relinquish their crowns to younger bloods. They even bow in defeat before their crowning. Yet they go down in history as champions—rulers. Monarchs of all they survey, but not unbeatable.

It is easy to be glorious in victory. It is comparatively simple to be great in defeat—if one makes a practice of being on the short end of the score. Defeat is of value only when it strengthens us for the next battle. We learn by experience, and every time we pick ourselves up after being knocked down we should be just so much wiser and so much harder to upset the next time.

Moral victories sound well, but in the long run mean very little. It is a hollow triumph. Though we are bound to lose, we must set out to win. And as Knute Rockne, one of the world's immortals, expressed it, "To the devil with the guys who'll die for old Notre Dame, I want men who'll live and fight!"

Bound to lose, let us accept each defeat, not only graciously, but with the knowledge that we have gained something by it.

UNEMPLOYED AND LEARNING

A theatrical friend of the writer was building a show for the road and was in search of assistants. Strangely enough, when interviewing applicants he insisted that they be of the type that enjoyed reading. Questioning him about this, we learned that the route carried the troupe through many small communities, which offered no other entertainment whatever. As the actors would have considerable time on their hands between performances, it was absolutely necessary that they know how to entertain themselves without getting into mischief. Thus his chief requirement was that they know what to do with spare time, as even loafing becomes monotonous.

Today, with unemployment at a peak, countless people find themselves with time on their hands. Most of them prefer to drift along with the tide, loafing here and loafing there. Others, however, are not so foolish. To them the period of unemployment represents an opportunity for better equipping themselves for their station in life. We know of many cases where persons out of employ turned back to the classroom and continued their educations. Others, whose pocketbooks would permit no such procedure, made full use of the public libraries and furthered their studies at home.

Evidence of the seriousness of some of the unemployed is given in the unexpected turnout for the first class of

MERCHANTS' 18TH ANNUAL BANQUET NOVEL AFFAIR FOR 180 GUESTS

The St. Clair Merchants' 18th annual banquet held at Rossmore Inn last Sunday was a delightful success, as anyone of the 180 attending will tell you.

It was a novel affair in so much as there was only one speaker, Mr. John Mihelich, president of the association. He introduced various business and professional men of the community, among whom were Doctors Oman, Selskar, Skur and Mally, Mrs. Makovec, Messrs. Frank Verbic, Joseph Demshar, Frank Surtz, Anton Anzlovar, John Bukovnik, John Prince, Frank Jakcic, Frank Mervar, Adam J. Damm, Joseph Krizman, Joseph Potokar and John J. Grdina.

Candle light cast a mellow glow throughout, making the atmosphere more flattering.

The dinner, tasty and delicious, was enjoyed by everybody. So it seemed, for when the dishes were returned to the kitchen they were quite empty.

Eddie Simms' melodious four-piece band was kept busy supplying tantalizing tunes of all varieties for the crowd of eager dancers.

SCOUT LEADER RETURNS FROM FLORIDA STAY

Felix A. Danton, Scoutmaster of Silver Fox Tribe, Resumes Duties

OUTLINES PROGRAM

Tribe Committee Holding First Meeting of Year Friday

Silver Fox Tribe, local Boy Scout group, welcomed back its scoutmaster, Mr. Felix A. Danton, on last Friday evening after an absence of four months. The local scout leader spent the winter in Miami Beach, Fla., visiting with his cousin, Mrs. Elsie Dulbs.

Among the important events scheduled for Tribe No. 2, which is sponsored by the St. Clair Merchants' Improvement Association, and which meets weekly in the St. Clair Bathhouse, as announced by Mr. Dalton after a meeting with his staff of assistants and the patrol leaders, are an inter-patrol contest, a Scoutmaster's Day meeting to be held early next month, participation in the city-wide Camp-a-ram on June 4, 1932 (providing adequate camping equipment is secured), the organization of a Scout Mother's Auxiliary of Tribe No. 2, and a combined Parent's Night and Court of Awards meeting on June 17.

The last three mentioned items are subject to the approval of the tribe committee, which is to hold its first meeting this year on next Friday evening, April 29, at the bathhouse. Dr. James W. Mally is chairman. Other members of the committee, which is the Boy Scout committee of the St. Clair Merchants' Association, are Messrs. F. M. Jaksic, Frank Mervar, Frank Ogletree and August Kollander.

SCOUT ANDERSON AWARDED SECOND HIGHEST DEGREE

Victor Anderson, tribe chief, and ranking junior officer of Silver Fox Tribe, was awarded the Life Scout Rank at the Court of Honor held in the City Council chambers on April 13.

This is the second highest rank to be achieved in the Boy Scouts of America. The Eagle Rank is the next step of the Silver Fox leader.

Scout Anderson, who has been a member of the tribe since December, 1927, and has served as tribe chief during the past 10 months, is the first scout in the local troop to achieve Life Scout Rank. To do this it was necessary for him to study and earn 10 merit badges, including first aid, athletics, personal health, public health and life saving.

Scouts Rudolph Kuznik and Frank Troha were awarded Star Scout Rank at the same Court of Honor, and Scouts Albert Hocevar, Michael Klemencic, Fred Mervar, William McGill, Fred Prime and John Verhovnik were advanced from Tenderfoot to Second Class Scouts. All are members of the local troop.

JUBILEE DANCE

A golden jubilee dance social is being planned by the Baraga Court of the Catholic Order of Foresters at Grdina's Hall on Sunday, May 1.

Good music and entertainment is promised for this occasion.

LAKE FRONT "MAYOR" FORCED TO VACATE ESTABLISHED HOME

Bill Schroeder, alias Kuppitke, alias Rouschke, or more familiarly alluded to as the "Mayor," faces eviction from his palatial lake front estate for failure to pay his tax assessments. The "Mayor" has until May 1 to vacate the premises. All his furnishings will probably be auctioned off at a public sale. Bill, who has dwelt on the estate for the past six years, broke down into tears when informed of the eviction order. He is considering renting an apartment at the foot of E. 53d St. for the summer.

SOCIALS PROVE SUCCESSFUL FOR LOCAL SODALITY

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Vitus' Church is quite gay-spirited because it has realized another successful social Wednesday night.

Several hundred patrons crowded the gymnasium room, which was an exact replica of a magnificent outdoor garden, and the affair was properly called garden dance. The Royal Revelers, a budding orchestra, made its debut on that evening.

The young ladies responsible for the labor and planning for the dance were the Misses Frances Debevec, Eleanor Karlinger, Jane Intihar, Theresa Gorencic, Sophie Zelle, Emily Zalokar, Adeline Gabrena, Agnes Mally and Emma Lucic.

ILIRIJA CHOIR TO GIVE CONCERT SUNDAY, APRIL 24

A highly entertaining concert will be given by the Ilirija Choir of St. Mary's Church Sunday, April 24, at the Slovenian Home, Holmes Ave.

Mr. Martin Rakar is directing the program, which will consist of the best selections and interpretations, of Slovenian songs.

The Singing Society Zvon will also enrich the program with several numbers. The quartet will sing the well-known Negro spiritual, "Sleep Kentucky Babe."

A dance and social will follow the concert.

BONUS HELPS NEEDY

Lake Shore Post No. 273, American Legion, has voted unanimously in favor of the soldier bonus at last meeting.

A majority of the men are out of work at present and a little help on Uncle Sam's part at this time of need would be only a small interest on the investment that each man put in during the war.

The post consists of about 75 members. Their club rooms are located at Mervar's Hall, Bonna Ave. and E. 60th St.

JERSE-ZAKRAJSEK

Mrs. Mary Jerse, 6220 Carl Ave., announces the marriage of her daughter Josephine to Mr. John Zakrajsk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Zakrajsk, 6609 Bonna Ave., Wednesday, April 27, at St. Vitus' Church.

The bride-elect's sister, Jennie, will be the maid of honor and Miss Josephine Vovk will be the bridesmaid. Joseph Zakrajsk is serving his brother as best man and James Rogelj will be the usher.

TO PRESENT COMEDY

"The Old Maids' Convention," a laugh-promoting, one-act comedy, will be presented by the members of the Sacred Heart Sodality of St. Paul's Church, E. 40th St., Sunday, May 29, in the church hall.

Last Sunday was the closing night for a very successful four-day bazaar at the church. Father Domiladovac, the pastor, is grateful to all those who helped with their labor and patronage.

IN MEMORY

Monday, April 18, marked the eighth anniversary of the death of Mr. Louis Knaus.

Mr. Knaus was a prominent, well beloved and zealous person in the community. He was one of the organizers and directors of the North American Trust Co.

Miss Anna Knaus, one of his daughters, is at present employed as a bookkeeper at the bank.

USHERS AT MET OPERA

Among the fortunate young ladies are the Misses Vera Knaus and Josephine Modic, who are ushering at the Metropolitan Grand Opera offerings this week at the Public Auditorium. They will be given the opportunity to hear both "Lakme" and "Manon."

It is believed that the operas will draw the usual corps of Slovenian patrons who annually look forward to the great song and musical productions.

Adjoining rooms to the dance floor were also put to good use by card players—four kibitzers to one player seemed to be the order of the evening.

Doctors Oman and Mally and John Prince were very much in evidence during the evening—now and then joining in with their assorted voices in Slovenian rhapsody.

Garments of rainbow hues, worn by the feminine sex, added to the colors of the decorations, blending in with the paper hat favors worn by the guests.

Mrs. Mary Makovec, community's leading charity worker, was the only woman introduced by Toastmaster Michaelich.

The ovation she received was tremendous, and the largest of the evening. She "stole the show."

The affair ended in the early hours of the morning to remain a pleasant memory to all.

Young Bohemian Artists to Make National Debut in Chicago May 18

Several hundred pupils and teachers of St. Vitus' School had the rare privilege of hearing the "Hollywood Baby Stars," Joan and Jeanne Halamicek, at the Slovenian Auditorium Monday morning. The Rev. B. J. Ponikvar arranged the recital.

Joan, age 13, is looked upon as a phenomenal child violinist, while Jeanne, who is 12, has been acclaimed "America's Baby Nightingale."

Their mother, Camille Halamicek, M. D., who accompanies them, is a direct descendant from a line of artists, dating back three centuries. She is responsible for the wonderful unsophisticated training of her daughters, whose simplicity makes them endearing to every audience.

The two miniature Bohemian artists have appeared in leading universities in the United States and Canada. They have also played important parts in many talking pictures. They will make their official, national debut in Chicago May 18 in the Orchestra Hall. Mayor Cermak and the fashionable society of the city will attend.

The St. Vitus children were thrilled, awed, and one might say in love with the two youthful artists who entertained them so delightfully for one hour. Jeanne and Joan were encored repeatedly and there is no doubt but that their triumphant recital will ever remain a pleasant and inspirational memory for the young audience.

K. K. K. TO HOLD SPRING FROLIC NEXT SATURDAY

The spring frolic given by the Klever Kids and the Arcadians, Saturday, April 23, is already being heralded as one of the best entertainment dances. Of course, the prediction of success is quite in order, because both of the clubs has an established record for pleasing their patrons.

The Slovenian Workingmen's Home, Waterloo Rd., will be the scene of the frolic. Music will be furnished by the Arcadian Melody Pilots.

Joe (Banjo Buddy) Sodja, who is coming from Buffalo, will appear on the entertainment program, as will the popular Five Foot Harmony Four boys.

WRITER DESCRIBES JUGOSLAVIA

By VLADIMIR PINTAR

Bled Lake is one of the warmest of all those in the Alps and is maintained by several warm springs which regulate its temperature. Bled has the longest season out of all watering places in the Alps. As it happens, Bled is most attractive with its late summer charms, it is then most suitable for those who come from the sea, for a complementary cure.

Bohinj Attracts Many

Bled Lake can be said to lie in the region where the River Sava begins; the Sava valley is divided into two below Bled. Where as its main current remains wide and flows slowly between the Karavanki and the Julian Alps on its way to the Jugoslav-Italian frontier, the other branch of the Sava, the Sava of Bohinj, is obliged to hollow out a very deep and winding bed for itself. It leaves the picturesque Bohinj valley, which can be reached in half an hour from Bled by rail or motor coach. This mountain district is much frequented by visitors on their summer holidays and also for winter sports; the principal town is Bohinj. On the left, the valley follows the southern chain of the Julian Alps, universally celebrated for the beauty and variety of their Alpine flora.

On the right extends the Pokljuka with its dense forests, whereas in the background stands out the powerful Triglav with its companions. Under the protection of that giant, scarcely a few kilometers from the railway station stretches the silent and romantic Lake Bohinj.

The Sava crosses this lake. Farther on, to the east of the lake, drowns the little church of St. John (Sveti Janez), one of the oldest Slovenian sanctuaries, dating from the 14th century. Nearby is a comfortable hotel of the same name. On the southern bank, all covered with green leaves, stands the small church of the Holy Spirit (Sveti Duh). Foreigners are easily attracted to this hidden and peaceful spot in the mountain where they can obtain recreation, health and even consolation, from the fresh mountain atmosphere, the air of which is laden with aromatic odors.

The valley, which has already been mentioned, running in an east-west direction between the Karavanki and the Julian Alps, is called the upper Sava

Ranks With Best

Sport writers, in the general consensus of opinions, are conceded to be flowery tongued individuals who possess a fair knowledge of a sport, but who rely chiefly on their polysyllabic grandiloquence (boy, the Webster!) in describing a fight, wrestling match, etc. In fact, very few writers can lay claim to such an amount of practical experience in athletic activities as Franklin "Whitey" Lewis, genial boxing expert of the Cleveland Press. Lewis is unanimously ranked by the fighters, wrestlers, their managers and the fans of this village as one of the foremost boxing and wrestling authorities in the country. Through years of actual participation in various sports he acquired a first-hand theoretical and practical education in the field of athletics.

LEWIS

"Whitey" embarked upon his athletic career right here at Glenville High School in 1920, where he earned letters in football, basketball, baseball, track, swimming and tennis. Quite an athlete, eh, what?

After graduating from Glenville he went to Purdue. While at the Boiler-makers institution, he was awarded the varsity monogram for his football and basketball endeavors. "Whitey" forsook the college gridiron hero role to accept a position as chief surveyor on a project in the Florida Everglades.

In 1925 he entered into the newspaper racket and at various times worked for dailies in Miami, Orlando and Tampa.

Lewis quit the reporting game in 1926 to tread the footlights with a musical comedy show and fighting and wrestling on the side.

The following year he was employed at Daytona Beach by the News Journal.

In the spring of '29 he sojourned to Port Huron, Mich., where he stayed for three months before coming to Cleveland to take up his present duties with the Press. That was in September. In December he inaugurated his widely read column, Knockout, and has been at it ever since. His radical views expressed in that column have been a source of enjoyment to thousands of fans interested in the successful promotion of boxing and wrestling.

Fake fights, wrestling, shyster managers and other illegitimate means of preying upon the paying public have been the object of his daily attacks through the medium of his scribbling. Yet he doesn't hesitate in the least to give credit where it is deserving.

Traverses U. S.

His reportorial assignments have carried him over these entire United States. This spring he went to the training camp with the Cleveland Indians as the Press baseball correspondent.

This summer he'll go to New York to cover the Schmeling-Sharkey fiasco. Is a decided blond (no, girls, he's hatched) and his chief diversions are collecting sweaters and training his Irish terrier.

Thinks Eddie Simms is a comer and will go further than brother Frankie in the fight game.

Regards Eddie Bojack as a "good little fighter."

Joy Boldin looks O. K. to him.

Rates Ernie Maddock as the best rassling ref in town.

Besides being an ace scribbler, the Private Lewis, as commonly referred to, is also an accomplished music writer and song composer.

SIMMS WINS

Undergoing a complete reversal of form and a change of offensive style, Eddie Simms, Slovenian heavyweight leather tosser who is rapidly attracting national attention, faced Gene Stanton, another local entry, in the fifth round of their scheduled eight-round fracas at the Equestrian last night.

In his two previous fights, Eddie had resorted to a crouching style of fighting which greatly hampered his effectiveness in punching.

Last night he was content to stay back and fire hard lefts and rights to the former bank clerk's head at long range. The blows left his opponent in a dazed and wobbly condition, according to our score card, copped every one of the first four stanzas by a comfortable margin. In the fifth vicious left hooks sent Stanton bouncing off the canvas for a count of six. A potent right sent the swarthy Italian down again for a nine count. Blood streaming from his nose and mouth, Stanton slowly rose to his feet and then slumped back down on the canvas—out cold, as referee Johnny Kilbane raised Eddie's hand in token of victory.

Simms spotted Stanton some 14 pounds, Eddie coming in at 194, while Stanton tipped the beams at 208.

In the other bouts Bruno Sala kayoed Joe Zeman in the third, Natie Brown decisioned George Pavlick, Wallace stopped Battling Bullahan in the fifth, Frankie Talamantzev dumped Ray La Ray and Frankie Bauer won

Flagmakers Show Up Best As 1931-32 Year Comes to Close

The 1931-32 Interodge bowling activities ended last Sunday in grand style for the new champions, the Spartans. Throughout the major portion of the campaign just culminated, the new champions were forced to roll exceptional scores to stay on top of the 10-team circuit.

Their claim to the title was not definitely settled until the last Sabbath day affair, when they trounced the S. Y. M. C. thrice to finish four games ahead of the second-place George Washingtons, who, incidentally, were champions of the previous season.

Billy Hocevar led the attack upon the Young Men when he assailed 187, 200 and 148 pins for a 535 total. But Joey Prosek's score of 598 was dimmed only by the fact that he was on the losing side.

TREY CHOPPERS BREAK EVEN

The runner-up found the third-place S. Y. M. C. outfit quite obstinate and lost all three games to the latter quint. They evened matters for the day by winning three from the Comrades, who forfeited their tilts. F. Stepic, Tony Grdina, Stan Kromar and "Lindy" Kotnik sparked in the Kay Jay-Washing-ton fracas.

To the Betsy Ross Flagmakers goes the distinction of the best closing series as they pummeled marks of 877, 923 and 1010 for an aggregate 2810 grand total. Krall and Oberstar twinkled with 594 and 590, respectively, as they captured three tilts from the Collinwood Boosters.

In a surprise result, the Clairwoods dumped the Sokols in two contests with Julius Bokar's 632 paving the way. His single installments were 171, 223 and 238. Louie Zust's 246 was the high single game of the day, and therefore he is entitled to the weekly suit clean-ing prize.

Tommy Jerab paced the victims.

The Kay Jays made it six in a row by taking three from the Pioneers in the remaining skirmish. Tony Mihelcic starred in this melee.

Back again, folks! Arm's a trifl sore and the old reliable optics aren't quite trained to face the offerings of rival hurlers yet, but nevertheless we aim to please and we'll start dishing 'em to the platter right now. So, take a lusty swing at the old apple.

Jim "Fat" Marsh, Babe Hogan, Lee Haight, Sid Dyer and Art Heiden will perform for the McWilliams Surveyors in Class A this coming season. The Surveyors will be managed by Del Young.

Tommy Gribbons, veteran sandlot manager, will be back in "B" under the Brazil Bros. banner. Some of the players included on his roster are Johnny Gasky, Paul Pich, Slim Fabian, Ossie Mendelson, Max Marx, Bill Lobe, Rudy Grum, Mikey Pavlich and Lefty Hejra. Gribbons thinks his outfit has a fine chance of copping the "B" flag again this year.

Rudy Kalister and Lefty "Al" Mlinar twinkled for Dolk Novario's Quaker Sugars as the Sugars engaged in a practice game with an all-star aggregation last Sunday at Fisher Field. Rudy pounded out two hits, including a triple, in as many trips to the plate. "Lefty," working on the mound for five innings, breezed 10 men.

Barry Sports, led by Hrovat and Lau-rich, handed the Speck Yankees a 6 to 5 licking last Sunday afternoon at Gordon Park. Kobe and Dolsak sparked for the losers.

"I simply cannot stand the sound of an auto horn," said Vasapoupolas.

"Why not?" asked Terwilliger.

"Some months ago my chauffeur stole my car and eloped with my wife, and every time I hear a horn toot I think he is bringing her back."

Collinwood Welter Upsets Dope in Dumping Brooks While Former Golden Gloves Champ Floors Forchione Last Friday at West Side Arena

By BILLY TOFANT

In direct accordance with our expositions that the Slovenians actively engaged in the break busting and caulk flower racket are rapidly carving for themselves enviable reputations in that profession, two Slovenian knights of the squared circle scored impressive heats. Boldin, who has been rather inactive in the fight game for the past few months and is essaying somewhat of a comeback, had Forchione ready for a kayo two or three times, but the wily Canton battler always managed to elude the neighborhood Slovenian's kayak efforts by hanging on. Joey finally caught up with Forchione in the fifth frame and landed a potent right smash to the region of the latter's bicuspid that sent him grueling in the resin for a nine toll. The blow completely paralyzed Forchione's jaw and Referee Johnny McGuire, seeing the visiting fighter's plight, stepped in and halted the fracas.

Eddie "Red" Bojack, who was doped to lose to the elongated Roger Brooks, needed just one round to upset the old oaken bucket by knocking the lanky welterweight colder than Pikes Peak on a zero morn. Ere the echo of the opening gong had died away, Bojack, Collinwood's contribution to the ring, floored Brooks for nine count with a trenchant right to the head that set the stage for the finish, which came two minutes later. Bojack, sensing that the end was nigh, measured Roger off and dropped him for another nine. Then he drilled home another hard right that put Brooks down to stay. The towel came fluttering in as the count reached eight.

The action lasted exactly 2:10.

By whipping Brooks, Bojack placed himself first in line for a shot at Jack December, city welter champ, who is recuperating from a broken jaw suffered in a bout with Freddy Edwards. The action lasted exactly 2:10.

Milavec's 222, Udovic's 215 and Mihelcik's 224 featured the Soeders' brace of victories over the Grdina & Sons. Tony Mihelcik's 207 was the best effort by the Grdinias.
