

DVA TEDNA V KANADSKIH GOZDOVIH

Pisec JAKA DEREVEC

Kakor vedno, sem tudi sedaj ugotovil, da piha veter od desne, ga kota laza in tje sem se prihujeno plazil po visoki travi. Treba je bilo delati previdno, da se ne splaši morebitna divjačina, če je v bližini. Predno sem napravil korak naprej, sem vedno potipal z nogo predse, če morda ne leži kak preperel hloď v travi, da se ne zvalim čezenj in ne napravim nepotrebne situacije svojega dostojanstva, ki ni zato na svetu, da bi polagal svoje kosti v travo in blato kanadskega močvirja.

Srečno sem dospel do gornjega konca jase in si poiskal neko podrito drevo, kamor sem se vsedel, položil puško čez kolena in potem se je pričelo zopet tisto ogleđovanje in motrenje krog in krog obronka gozda. Ne vem, koliko tisočkrat je moj pogled obkrožil okoli, sešel sem menda vsak listič na grmovju, premeril in precenil vsako posamezno smreko in na prste izračunal, koliko voz kravine bi to bilo, če bi rasla pri nas doma in kakšna imenitna "košta" bi to bila, če bi se ji primešalo čisto malo dobrega sena in potrelo s par pesti otrobov.

Bilo je precej megleno jutro in precej mrzlo. Sedel sem stisnjen v dve gubi na mokrem debelu in zaman sem prosil nebo in zemljo, naj se usmili uboga lovca in naj pošlje za vsaj dva centa solčnih žarkov, če že ne po vsej širni zemlji, pa vsaj v ta zapuščen laz. Dasi so tičale noge v debelih volnenih nogavicah, nogavice pa v črnih škornjih, pa me je kmalu prijel mrz. Najprej sem začutil v mezinah, potem v petah, nakar je prehajala "blagodejna" toplota v kolena, ki so se kmalu podala pritisku od spodaj in so začela drgetati, da sem moral položiti med kolena konec suknjice, da se ni slišalo udarjenje kosti ob kost. Roke sem pa tiščal globoko v žepih, da niso postali prsti okoreli, ker zmrznjen prst ne najde petelina na puški, pa magari če bi bil petelin velik kot smrekov štor.

Zdel sem se samemu sebi, kot konj starokrajskih voznikov, ki kima pred vaško gostilno, voznik pa bahato tolče ob mizo in se naliva. Pa lovska strast je že taka: vedel sem in prisegel bi bil pri vseh živih in mrtvih, da v tem meglenem jutru ne bo srnjaka na spregled, posebno ne radi tega, ker sem ga jaz čakal. Pa vseeno sem tam čepel cele štiri ure, meneč: morda bo pa le hudič prinesel od te ali one strani kako štirinogato žival. Obrnil sem se s ponižno prošnjo na sv. Evstahija, priprošnjak in zagovornik vseh lovecev, naj mi skomandira vsaj enega malega srnjaka. Saj ni treba, da bi ga postavil na sredi loze in ga tam postavil tako, da bo obrnil svojo srčno stran proti meni. Ne, samo toliko naj ga zrine iz grmovja, da bo pokazal rožičke, pa bo moj. Tudi če se mi postavi tako, da bo tisti konček repka obrnjen proti meni, se ne bom pritoževal. Pomeril sem naravnost v rep in tako natančno zadal, da bo šla krogla koncu repa notri in bo prišla ven na konici njegovega rogu. Bil sem že take volje, da bi bil tudi na samega peklenskega pomeril, če bi se mi bil pokazal, pa naj bi bil to sam poglavar peklenške armade, ali pa zadnji njegov hudiček, tisti, ki snaži kopita svojemu glavarju Luciferju.

Pa da bi smel vsaj kaditi! To da kajenje je strogo prepovedano na preži in čeravno me ni nihče videl, vseeno se nisem hotel pregrešiti zoper to lovsko pravilo in napisano postavo. Tisti, ki kadi, bo že vedel, kaj se pravi štiri ure sedeti sam v gozdu, in ne da bi vsaj en dim napravil. Na jed se že pozabi, ampak na cigareto — to je pa druga. Se reče, sem pa potem bolj vlek, ko sem vstal in se napolnil do svojih tovarišev k bližnjemu jezeru.

Za naše gospodinje

Sobne rastline pozimi

Naše gospodinje in dekleta, ki so povečini ljubiteljice cvetja in zelenja v sobi, imajo večkrat velike težave s prezimovanjem sobnih rastlin. Kar so čez poletje s trudom vzgojile in nakupile, jim navadno vzame zima, če že ne popolnoma, pa vsaj toliko pokvari, da si težko in kasno opomore. Marsikje nimajo za prezimovanje sobnih rastlin primerne šrambe in prostora. Največkrat je pa nevednost kriva, da čez zimo propade toliko lepih in včasih tudi dragocenih rastlin.

Dve napaki pri prezimovanju sta najbolj navadni in najbolj usodni. Sobne rastline imajo čez zimo preveč na toplem in jih preveč zalivajo.

Popolnoma napačno je mnenje, češ, da se bo ta ali ona lončnica tem bolj obdržala čez zimo, čim bolj tople prezimovališče bo imela. Zima je skoraj za vse rastline v našem podnebju doba počitka. To velja tudi za sobne rastline. Čim nastane hladnejše vreme, prenehajo sprejemati hrano, nekatere se tudi ospejo (odpade jim listje). V tej dobi jim prija nizka toplota, nekaj stopinj pod ničlo. Če so tudi pozimi na toplem, na primer v dobro kurjeni sobi, se ne morejo umiriti in neprestano rastejo. To jih tako oslabi, da vse betežne in onemogle komaj dočakajo spomladi in si čez poletje prav težko opomorejo, slabo rastejo in ne cveto.

Za večino naših navadnih, bolj trdnih sobnih rastlin so svetle, nekurjene sobe zelo ugodne prezimovališča. Ako je tak prostor toliko v zavetju in dobro zaprt, da toplota čez zimo ne odneha pod 5 stopinj Celzija, prezimuje lahko v njem mnogo naših navadnih sobnih rastlin. Če ni zato primerne sobe, je dobra tudi klet, če je le količkaj svetla in če ni pretopla. Na najbolj svetel prostor k oknom de-nemo vse tiste rastline, ki ostanejo tudi čez zimo zelene, kakor na primer palme, nagelne, rožmarin, žeraneč, šebenik in drugo. Bolj v temo denemo rastline, ki jim v jeseni odpade listje, kakor na primer fuhsije, hortenzije, pa tudi pelargonije, ki se tudi precej oblete. V hladno klet, kjer ne zmrzuje, spada čez zimo tudi oleander, evonimus, lavor, juke in druge take sicer trde rastline, ki pa vendar naše zime na prostem ne prebijejo.

V zmerno tople (kurjeno) sobo, čim dalje od peči in čim bolj na svetlem, spadajo samo tiste bolj mehke rastline, kakor na primer Sprengerjev beluš (asparagus), aralija, begonija, filodendron in še mnogo drugih, ki jih pa redkokje goje po sobah.

Druga važna stvar pri prezimovanju sobnih rastlin je pa zalivanje. Še celo poleti, ko rastline rastejo, moramo previdno zalivati, če hočemo imeti zdrave. Kaj pa šele pozimi! So rastline, ki jih pozimi sploh ne smemo zalivati (na primer muzo), ker sicer gotovo zginejo. Rastline, ki jim v jeseni odpade listje, ne potrebujejo čez zimo nič vode. Zaliti jih smemo prav poredko in samo toliko, da se zemlja v posodi popolnoma ne izsuši. Tudi druge, ki prezimujejo v hladni kleti ali nezakurjeni sobi, čeprav so še zelene, potrebujejo malo vode. Zato jih zalivamo občasno in previdno. Količkaj čez mero in prepogosto zalite ginejo in do spomladi navadno propadejo popolnoma. Posebno pelargonije so v tem oziru zelo občutljive. Redno, vendar pa tudi redkeje in previdneje nego poleti, zalivamo rastline, ki so čez zimo v kurjenih prostorih, zlasti tiste, ki tudi pozimi rastejo ali cveto. Vobče pa velja pravilo, da je za sobne rastline čez zimo boljše, ako je zemlja v loncih nekoliko bolj suhljata, nego da bi bila premokra.

Naj omenimo tu še, da prezimujejo gomolje od georgin ali dalij v suhi kleti, kjer ne zmrzuje. Najbolj se ohranijo, ako jih zložimo na kako polico nekoliko od tal. Ako bi gomolji zmrznili, so mrtvi. Prav tako moramo spraviti čez zimo čebulice od mekov ali gladijol. Še bolj občutljivi so pa gomolji od kan. Te pa shranimo v suhem pesku v topli sobi, na primer v kakem zaboju, na omari ali kjerkoli, samo da je suho in toplo.

Oglasi v "Ameriški Domovini" imajo vedno dober vspeh.

ORIGINALNE SVATBE V RIBNIŠKI DOLINI

(Piše Mrs. Tonči Penko)

Za časa mojega šestletnega bivanja v Ribnici, sem spoznala marsikateri ribniški običaj, ki se sam po sebi odlikuje in nosi staro tradicijo slovenskih navad in običajev. V tem dopisu se hočem omejiti na originalnost ribniških svatb in ženitev.

V mesecu septembru vsakega leta se vrši v trgu Ribnica velik semenj, ki je večinoma posvečen ženinom in nevestam. Hudo domišljivi ga imenujejo "semenj ženinov in nevest." Dekleta, kot tudi fantje, ki so godni za ženitev, se dolgo pripravljajo na ta semenj, ki jim ima določiti nevesto ali ženina. Za ta dan mora biti pripravljena najlepša obleka in tudi ženka v žepu ne sme manjkati.

Po sredi trga je široka in lepa cesta, ob njej pa "štartarji" tesno skupaj postavljajo svoje stojnice in trgujejo z okoliškimi kmeti in delavci. Živahnost se že prične kmalu po 8. uri, ko se ljudje vračajo iz cerkve in gredo na sejmišče. Prostor med Cenetovo gostilno in Arkotovim hotelom je okrog desete ure dopoldne podoben mravljišču, ker so tam večinoma s a m i mladi ljudje in kandidacije za zakonski stan. Hodijo gor in dol in ogledujejo drug drugega, kdo je lepši in bolj "šteman." Kmalu po 10. uri pridejo starejši ljudje iz okolice in opazujejo motrijo živahno mladino. Grupirajo se navadno v skupinah po štirje ter si medsebojno pripovedujejo, kdo je ta ali oni.

Nekaj dni pred semnjem razglase sorodniki dekleta: koliko dote bo imela ena ali druga. Okolica je dobro informirana o vsaki doti posebej, zato ni težko dekle po denarju zbirati. Včasih, če se posreči dobra partija, se tudi nekaj doda k doti in mogoče tudi v blagu. Dota je velikokrat odvisna od vrednosti ženina ali pa obratno.

Glavno vlogo pri izvidu ženitvenih kandidatov igrajo brez dvoma sorodniki, strici in tete. Največkrat je tako, da se ženin in nevesta zjutraj niti ne poznata, zvečer so pa že dogovorjeni, kdaj se ima svatba vršiti. Na sejmišču pokliče oče ali mati, stric ali teta fanta ali dekleta na stran in mu pokaže, kdo je ta in kdo je ona, ter pristavi, koliko dote ima in kje je doma. Če fant ali dekle pritrdi, da mu je po godu in se strinja tudi glede razpoložljivih sredstev, sklenejo poskusiti srečo ter jo zaslužiti. Sprehajajoč se opazujejo drug drugega, naposled pa pošljejo po enega izmed sorodnikov, ki mu zaupajo in ki pravi teren, da se v gostilni snidejo ter se drug drugemu predstavijo. Dogovorjen je natančen čas in po možnosti tudi miza, kje bodo skupaj obedovali. Če se ena stranka ne odzove ob času dogovora, je to znamenje, naj se nanje ne reflektira in da jim je bila stavljena boljša ponudba.

Da v takih dnevih ni žalostno, preskrbe ribniški gostilničarji dobro kapljico in tudi pleše se, vse — staro in mlado. Polne mize jedi in prvovrstne kapljice govore, da Ribničanje niso skopji ljudje ob času, kadar se jim gre za čast in da ostalim pokažejo, da imajo vsega dovolj in da se ni bati nevesti v hišo priti, da bi stradala. V veselem razpoloženju, prepevajoč zdravice ob škripanju harmonike poteka čas hitro in kmalu gostilničar postreže gostom z lučjo. — Včasih je kateri dogovor trd in sporo je opaziti, da se bo vse razdrlo, pa se vtakne vmes kakšen upliven možak in obe stranki končno pritrdita. Tukaj se mnogokrat uresniči svetopisemski izrek, ki pravi: "Veliko je bilo poklicanih, pa malo izvoljenih." Tisti, katerim ni bila sreča na semnju mila, jo poskušajo vjeti izven tega revirja na svojo roko ali pa počakajo bodočega leta, da se jim nasmeje.

Dogovor je sklenjen, čas po-roke določen, dogovorjeno je, kdo bo mizaril in koliko bo pohištva naredil. Določeno je dajanje, kaj ima nevesta prinesiti k hiši itd.

Sedaj po opravi dogovora je treba tudi zabeležiti pred javnim notarjem in tam izvršiti vse formalnosti, kar jih zakon in zaščita posameznika zahteva. Ženitno pismo je narejeno, oče si je izgovoril svoj preužitek, določil drugim doto v naravnih in denarnih dajatvi ter zapisal, po svoji smrti ženi polovico tega, kar njemu pripada, kakor je zapisano v ženitni pogodbi in tudi vknjiženo pri sodišču v zemljiški knjigi v breme zemljišča. Notar ponudi pero in vsi po vrsti podpišejo pogodbo, kakor so jo želeli imeti narejeno. Navzoča ženin in nevesta ter obojestranski starši, zaupajoč uradni osebi kraljevega notarja, zapustijo urad in dobro zalijejo sklenjeno pogodbo, katere nam prinese obilo sreče v hišo ženina.

Prične se pripravljanje na svatbo in praznovanje velikih družinskih dnevo. Med tem, ko šivilje pridno vrtijo svoje šivalne stroje in mizarji svoje stružnike, pa zunanji ljudje kaj skrbno ugibljejo, kaj vse bo imela in koliko bo k hiši prinesla. Vaške klepetulje pa od hiše do hiše do kosti obirajo ubogo nevesto in ženina, ne meneč se za to, kaj s takim obiranjem dosežejo in povzročijo. Redki pa so slučajni, da jezikovanje razdre ženitev, kajti Ribničanje so pametni ljudje in kaj neradi verjamejo vaškim klepetuljam.

Hišo bo treba pobeliti in okna prepleskati, pravi oče sinu da pride nevesta na čisto in sveže gospodarstvo. Denar bo treba dvigniti in ta lepše smreke v gozdu posekati, da se na dostojen način proslavi svatbo in z izkupičkom stroške pokrije. Vse je izvršeno po naročilu gospodarja, ker v ribniški dolini gospodarijo le takrat ženske, kadar so možje s "suho robo" po svetu, toda kadar se vrnejo, jim žene že na pragu izroče gospodarstvo zopet v njih previdne roke.

Nevestin oče skrbno naroči svoji ženi: "Pojdi v hranilnico in vzemi toliko, kolikor se bo za predpriprave rabilo, ker ja z grem s "suho robo" na Koroško in se vrnem nekaj dni pred "oh-cetjo."

Pred večerom svatbe so v hiši vsi praznično oblečeni, sedeč okrog mize s ponosom na obrazu, ker se ima izvršiti velik in vesel družinski dogodek kmalu po vzhodu jutranjega solca. Oče skrbno čisti okrog hiše kar se ni bilo izvršeno, mati pa se suče okrog peči z burkljami v rokah in prestavlja in odstavlja velike lonce, kjer se kuhajo velike prešičje gnjati. Včasih se ji utrne solza preko lica, ko se zmisli na hčerko-nevesto. Nevesta, zatopljena in živo zamišljena v srečo ob strani ženina, pospravlja in zgiba perilo na kup poleg omare, čakajoč, kdaj fantje pridejo k njej po slovo in ji zapojejo podoknico.

Sorodniki se prično o mraku zbirati, povabljeni so na večerjo tudi sosedje, če so živeli z njimi pred slavnostjo v dobrem razmerju. Prične se velika in obilna pojedina, kateri prisostvuje nevesta in njene tovarišice. V kotu cvili godec na harmoniko in razigrana družba zdravlja nevesti in njene bodoče sreči. Zunaj se zasliši petje; vse utihne in vaški fantje, ki so skrivno zbrani, tesno v krogu stisnjeni, pojo poslovljno pesem podoknico dekletu in "lejdik" vstanu. Nevesta stopi objokana pred fante in jih povabi v sobo, kjer jim napije, zahvaljujoč se jim za izkazano čast ob času tega važnega trenutka. Fantje se ne dajo mnogo prositi in stopijo za nevesto v hišo in se radevolje odzovejo nevestinemu vabilu. Medtem pridejo vaška dekleta voščit srečo nevesti in fantje uporabljajo priliko, da jih potegnejo na plesišče in skupno plešejo. Šele pozna ura jih razdvoji in ukajoč zapuščajo fantje nevestino hišo veselo razpoloženi.

Čas poroke je navadno ob deseti uri dopoldne, in sicer v zvezi s cerkvenim oparvilom. Ovenčani vozovi, na njih slovenske zastave, na njih pa sorodniki in gostje, njim na čelu ženin, se peljejo na nevestin dom, nakar vzejejo nevesto k cerkvenemu poročenemu obredu. Navadno se gostje vozijo v kočijah, nikoli pa ne v cerkev pred poroko ženin in nevesta skupaj, ker to je proti običajem. Nevesta sedi ob strani ženinove priče, ženin pa ob strani nevestine tovarišice. Pri vstopu v cerkev jima je dovoljeno, da smeta skupaj korakati proti oltarju, kjer se imajo vršiti poročne ceremonije.

Po opravi poroke se podajo v bližnjo gostilno, kjer so naročili že vnaprej pijačo in prigrizek. Na čelu povorke gre godec, ki gode vesele koračnice in s tem skliče radovedneže iz hiš, kolikor jih ni radovednost že poprej na prag prignala. Ženin meče na levo in desno cigare, da s tem pokaže, kaj vse je on in kaj premore. Radovedneži jih pobirajo in mnogokrat se pripeti, da se radi cigar prične ostro zbadanje, nikoli pa ne pride do dejanskega obračuna. Navada je ob potu, ki vodi proti nevestinemu domu, se ustaviti v vsaki gostilni in poskusiti, kakšno pijačo "birt" prodaja. Tudi slučajno navzoči gostje v gostilni niso izvzeti in na račun "ohcetnih" se izpije marsikateri kozareček. Ženin in nevesta v prvi kočiji, pred njima sedeč kočijaž in poleg njega godec, ki razteza meh na dolgo in široko, da se razlega daleč po okolici. Za ženinom se vozita tovariš in tovarišica skupno, za njima pa sorodniki in drugi povabljeni. Strogo in točno ima paziti tovariš, da se vse izvrši po običajih običajih, sicer dobi zaslužen kaznen od jezikov vaških klepetulj. Vrskanje in petje je naznanilo bližnjim vasem, kaj se godi in komu vsa ta čast velja. Mati in oče neveste čakata na pragu drago, ovenčano hčerko-nevesto ter jo pri izstopu poljubita, želeč ji obilo sreče v zakonskem stanu.

Svatve vstopijo, godec se spravi v kot, velikokrat na peč, in prične se pojedina v veselem razpoloženju. Mlajši plešejo, starejši se pogovarjajo, otroci pa skačejo okrog miz, držeč v rokah vsak svoj kos potice. O mraku se prične z nakladanjem "bale" in pri tem pride še najbolj interesantna stvar svatbe. Nevestin oče namreč vpričo gostov odšteje na roko ženinu dogovorjeno doto, da vsi navzoči vidijo, da je dotično plačal, ne da bi ostal komu kaj dolžan. Fantje vaščani pripravijo že tekom dneva voz, ga okrase in nanj nalože nevestino balo. Naloga nekaterih je, da za nevesto "kradejo" v domači hiši in naložijo na voz neopaženo v skrit kraj stvari, ne glede, kakšne so. Da imajo domači možnost spoznati, kdo krađe in na koga imajo pri nakladanju paziti, je običaj, da si morajo tatovi privezati bel predpasnik in s tem predpasnikom vršiti delo. Omare se običajno nalože na "lojtrni" voz spodaj, na vrh istih pa perilo, obleko in pogrinjala. Za vozom se priveže krava ali vol, če je bil isti izgovorjen, da ga med drugimi nevesta dobi v doto. Fantje zapojejo v slovo in ob sviranju harmonike se svatve pomikajo proti vasi ženina, z glasnim ukanjem in petjem. Mati plaka na pragu, godec uganja burke in svatba zavije okrog vogala v sosedno vas. Drugo jutro je svatba končana in nevesta se na novem domu ogleduje, kam je prišla, predno je imela priložnost, da se je do dobrega prespala. Na osmi dan jo mati in oče obiščeta, in s tem dogodka je v zvezi tudi mala gostilja, toda brez navzočnosti godca, fantov in deklet.

SMRTHO KLANJE NA POKOPALIŠČU

V nekem kraju blizu Travnika v Bosni je prišlo ob priliki neke slovesnosti na pokopališču do krvavega pretepa in klanja med kmeti, v katerem je ostalo na bojišču sedem ranjenih in 3 mrtvi. Kmetje so bili nekoliko opiti in so se sprli radi neke ma-lenkosti. Nenadoma pa so potegnili nože in skočili drug v drugega. Pokopališče se je izpremenilo v pravcato bojno polje, na katerem se je klalo z nožmi okrog dvajset pijanih in razjarjenih kmetov. Glavni trije krivci so takoj po bitki izginili brez sledu in je bil ves napor orožnikov, da jih najdejo, zaman.

ODBOR

NAZNANILO IN ZAHVALA.

Globoko potrti in z bolešjo v srcu naznanjamo vsem sorodnikom, prijateljem in znancom prežalostno vest, da nam je dne 8. oktobra, 1930 nemila smrt izrgala iz naše srede, po dolgi in mučni bolezni, previdno s svetimi zakramenti, našo nadsveto ljubljeno soprogo, oziroma drago mater

Anna Pate

Pogreb predrage pokojne se je vršil 11. oktobra na Calvary pokopališču.

Najprvo se iskreno zahvaljujemo duhovniku Rev. Matiji Jager za spremstvo iz hiše v cerkev in na pokopališče in za ganljive pogrebne obrede.

Prav lepo se zahvaljujemo vsem onim, ki so jo obiskovali za časa njene bolezni in vsem, ki so jo prišli pokropiti in moliti za pokoj njene duše, ter onim, ki so čuli ob mrtvaškem odru in vsem, ki so jo spremlili k večnemu počitku.

Nadalje smo dolžni se srčno zahvaliti vsem za derovane krasne vence: Družina Josip Pate, družina John in Jennie Pat, Louis in Sophie Pate, Mr. in Mrs. Louis Erste, Mr. in Mrs. Bartol, Mr. in Mrs. Pakish, družina Nick Spell, družina Jeraj, Charles Perko, družina Tisovec, družina John Udovič, Mr. Louis Slapnik, Employees of the Buckeye Ribbon Co., Chicago Automatic Employees, društvo sv. Ane, št. 4 SDZ, društvo Kristusa Kralja, št. 226 KSKJ.

Prav lepa hvala za darove za sv. maše, in sicer: Mr. Frank Pate, Mr. Josip Krevs, Mrs. Tomazina, Mrs. Erste, družina Jeraj, Mr. Jim Zupancic, Miss Rose Posoga, Miss Frances Cesar, Miss Mary Pohaska, Mrs. Deželan, družina Rogelj, Mrs. Bukovec Mrs. J. Sullivan, Mrs. Udovič, Mary Mirtič, Mr. in Mrs. John Udovič, Mr. in Mrs. John Kovačič, Mr. Tony Udovič, Mr. Steve Skrobort, družina John Rogelj, Fellows from Chicago Automatic Co.

Lepa hvala tudi vsem onim, ki so dali svoje avtomobile brezplačno na razpolago pri pogrebu. Posebna hvala pogrebni mu zavodu Anton Grdina in Sinovi za pomoč v vseh ozirih ob času žalosti in za tako lepo vodstvo pogreba.

Ti, preblaga in nepozabna soproga in draga mati, veseli se v večni slavi za plačilo svojega zemeljskega trpljenja. Prerano si nas zapustila, na drugi, boljši svet se preselila in dom nam spremenila v hišo žalosti. Edino nas tolaži zavest in sladko upanje, da se zopet enkrat snidemo nad zvezdami.

Zalujoči ostali:

Rudolph Pate, soprog.
Anna, Mildred, Mary, Alice, hčere.
Rudolph, Louis, Joseph, Frank, sinovi.

33. Gadsdenova nova smola

Fanta nista imela orožja, še palice ne in videti je bilo, da sta poskušala uiti Gadsdenu, pa sta padla iz ponve v ogenj. Mogla nista storiti drugega kot splezati še višje, toda veje so bile tako zveržene in prepletene, da sta mogla samo še nekaj čevljev naprej. Zver pod njima je pa tudi imela podobne sitnosti. Slišala sta, kako s svojimi velikimi kremplji praska po lubju, ko se skuša preriti do njiju; nato pa renče odleti vznak in prileti z rahlim zamolklim udarcem na zemljo.

"Vejeve mu je pregosto," dahne Jim hvaležno. "Sam, na varnem sva."

"Tiho!" sikne Sam. "Nekdo je pri vrtnih vratih."

Pri teh besedah zaslisiša, kako udari kljuka, ko nekdo odpre vrata. Temu glasu pa še isti hip zopet sledi renčanju in tulenju podobni glas.

"Panter!" krikuje Jim. "Umoril bo tega človeka!"

Kot odmev na njegove besede pa se oglasi prestrašen krik in začuje se, kako je nekaj težkega priletelo na tla.

"Saj sem ti rekel!" pravi Jim in glas se mu trese; in že pleza nizdol.

Sam ga zgrabi. "Jim, ali si znorel! Ostani, kjer si!"

Jim pa se ga otrese. "Pusti me, Sam! Saj vendar ne morem mirno gledati, da ga zver umori!"

"Pinto! Pinto!" zadoni iz teme neki glas. Bil je mogočen, pa vendar mehak glas ter bogat in poln kot godba.

Zverina pri vrtnih vratih pa je v odgovor čudno rignila. Ni ne rančala ne rjula; zares: njen glas je bil tak, kakršnega Jim še nikoli ni slišal iz živalskega grla. Posveti se luč in nekdo pride z električno svetilko ter hiti skozi drevje proti vrtnim vratom. V naslednjem hipu obsveti luč vrata in s peskom posuto vrt no pot.

Jim urno diha. "Res je panter, Sam. In — in tisti pod njim je nihče drug kot Gadsden!"

"Pinto!" zopet zavpije novodošlec, nato pa doda še nekaj besedi z globokim in jeznim glasom. Naenkrat zapusti panter svojo žrtev, se obrne in stopa naravnost proti novodošlemu. Ta je bil človek kakih tridesetlet, ne baš velik, a njegove prsi so bile ogromne in pleča silna. Imel je na sebi lahno žametno jopico, oprsje pa je krasil velik biserni gumb, ki je v luč svetilke kar žarel. Panter pa je bil silna žival, kajti meril je od glave do konca repa najmanj dvajset čevljev; dobričal se je in vohal možu roko.

"Krotak je," zamrmra Jim. "Do svojega gospodarja že," odgovori Sam, "ne pa do tujcev."

"Jaz grm dol," pravi Jim. "Vse je varno. Mož nadevleje zverini verigo."

Še preden je Sam mogel ugovarjati, je Jim že skočil na tla. Pinto ga je pozdravil z grozovitim renčanjem, panterjev gospodar pa se hitro obrne in jima ostro pogleda. Ko pa vidi, da je vlomilec sam neznan fant in še hudo strgan fant povrhu, se mu ostri pogled spremeni v prenečenje.

"Ali govorite angleško, senjor?" začne Jim.

"Seveda. Znam angleško. To rešite v Anglež?"

"Da, gospod. Ime mi je James Selby. Tistile človek," pokaže na Gadsdena, "me je v sosednji hiši zaprl, moj prijatelj Sam Lusty pa me je rešil. Lovili so naju pa sva se zatekla v vaš vrt."

Širokoplečati mož za hip od presenečenja kar strmi, nato pa se naenkrat glasno zasmije.

"Igra pri mojih vrtnih vratih!" vzklikne. "To je pa silno zanimivo!"

Jim pa pokaže na Gadsdena. "To ni igra, gospod! Vaš panter ga je umoril!"

Oni drugi pa se zopet zasmije.

"Umoril! Ne, prav gotovo ne. Pinto ni še nikogar umoril. Je prav tak kakor vaš angleški buldog. Varuje mi vrt in zbije na tla vsakega vlomilca, mori pa ne."

"Resnico govori," se zdaj zaslisi Samov glas; in Sam skoči z drevesa, rekoč: "Gadsden se premika."

"Pustili bomo torej Pinto, da ga varuje, mi pa pokličemo policijo," pravi njun novi prijatelj.

Gadsden se s težavo spravi na noge. Nato pa izvleče pištolo in pravi mirno: "Tega panterja ustrelim, ako se mi znova približa." Čeprav je bil Jimu Gadsden hudo zoper, si vendar ni mogel kaj, da ne bi občudoval njegovega hladnega poguma.

"Pustite me, da odidem," dostavi Gadsden, "pa ne boste ničesar več o meni slišali — zaenkrat."

Širokopleči mož stopi naprej. "Senjor, če niste najboljši strelec, ki nikoli ne zgreši, vam ne bi svetoval streljati na mojo živalco, kajti ako je ne ubijete takoj, bo pa gotovo ona ubila vas. Če bi se ji to ne posrečilo, bi vas pa jaz preganjal do kraja zemlje!"

Zdaj se pa tudi Gadsden začne vanj. "O, zdaj vas spoznam! Vi ste senjor Valda! Smatram vas za toliko modrega, da me pustite oditi."

Jim je kar poskočil, ko je zaslisišal ime in vzkliknil: "Veliki pevec! Slišal sem vas na svoj radio. Takoj se mi je zdelo, da mi je vaš čudoviti glas znan!"

"Hvala vam, fant moj!" odvrne Valda. "Zelo ste ljubeznivi. Zdaj pa je od vas odvisno, da poveste, ali naj vašemu ječarju dovolim oditi ali ne."

Jim je hitro mislil. Če Gadsdena zgrabi in če tudi ne strelja, bodo imeli sitnosti s policijo, nato posla s sodnijo in morda se bodo s tem v Rio hudo zakasnili. Časa pa vendar niso smeli zapravljati, ako so hoteli Uptona rešiti.

"Da," reče hitro; "ako mi izroči moj radio, ki je v njegovi hiši, lahko odide."

34. Na kaj se je spomnil Valda? Valda je sam šel s fantoma po radio in Gadsden jih je mirno gledal, ko so ga jemali proč.

"Vsa zadeva me jako zanima," reče nato Valda. "Ali bi hotela iti k meni na večerjo in bi mi vso zgodbo povedala?"

"Nobene stvari rajši," pravi Jim, hrepeneče, "toda moj gospodar profesor Thorold, me gotovo išče po vsem mestu."

"Kje pa stanuje?"

"V Alcazarju," mu pove Jim.

Iz poljsčine prevlel
DR. RUDOLF MOLE

Gospodična Aleksandra se je tudi borila sama s seboj. Iz vsega, kar se je bilo pripetilo, iz Kmitičevega ravnanja v Bilevicih, iz besed Zaglobe in Skrzetuskega je spoznala, da je Kmitič v zmoti; toda ni bil toliko kriv, ni zaslužil takega zaničevanja, take brezprimerne obsodbe, kakor je sodila prej. Saj je vendar rešil one čestite ljudi od smrti, saj je bilo v njem vendar toliko odličnega ponosa, da ni pokazal lista, ki ga je imel v rokah in ki bi ga bil lahko opravičil, a še najmanj rešil smrti, da ni črnil niti besede in šel v smrt z dvignjeno glavo.

Vzgojena od starega vojaka, ki je stavil preziranje smrti na čelo vsem drugim čednostim, je Olenka slavila junaštvo iz vsega srca, zato je morala nehoti občudovati to trdo viteško domišljijo, ki jo je bilo mogoče izbiti iz telesa le obenem z dušo.

Razumela je tudi to, da Kmitič služi Radzivilu v najboljši veri — torej kako krivično je bilo, da so ga osumili veleizdaje! In vendar mu je ona prva storila to krivico, ni mu hotela odpustiti tega niti v očigled smrti!

„Popravi krivico!“ ji je govorilo srce, „sicer je med vama vse končano, toda ti si mu dolžna priznati, da si ga sodila po krivici. Dolžna si mu to tudi radi sebe...“

Toda v tej gospodični je bilo tudi precej ponosa in morda celo tudi nekaj trme; zato ji je prišlo takoj na misel, da temu vitezu gotovo ni več na takem zadoščenju, in rdečica je obličila njen obraz.

„Gotovo mu ni, naj ga torej pogreši!“ je rekla sama pri sebi. Vendar ji je vest pravila dalje, da mu mora dati zadoščenje, pa naj si po krivem obdolženju zahteva ali ne zahteva zadoščenje; a na drugi strani je tudi ponos dodajal čimdalje nove dokaze.

„Če bi me ne hotel poslušati, kar je mogoče, bi se naučila samo sramu. Drugič, če je kriv ali ne, dela s premislekom, četudi v zmoti, dovolj, da je na strani izdajalcev, na strani sovražnikov domovine in jim jo pomaga ugonabljati. Za domovino je vseeno, če manjka razuma ali poštenosti. Bog mu lahko odpusti, ljudje pa ga morajo in so dolžni, da ga obsojajo in ime veleizdajalca ostane na njem. Tako je! Tudi če ni kriv, ali ni prav, da zaničuje takega človeka, ki nima namreč še toliko razsodnosti, da ne zna ločiti zlo od dobrega, prestopok od čednosti...“

Tu je gospodično zgrabila je za in lici sta ji počeli goreti.

„Rajši molčim!“ si je rekla. „Naj trpi, kar je zaslužil. Dokler ne bom videla kesanja, toliko časa imam pravico ga obsoditi...“

Potem je obrnila svoj pogled h Kmitiču, kakor bi se hotela prepričati, če se vidi na njegovem obrazu znaki kesanja. V onem hipu baš sta se srečala njuna pogleda, radi česar sta oba zardela.

Kesanja Olenka morda ni opazila na viteževem obrazu, a opazila je bil in veliko utrujenost; opazila je, da je bil ta obraz blede kakor po bolezni; prevzelo jo je globoko usmiljenje, solze so ji silile v oči in sklonila se je še bolj nad mizo, da bi ne izdala ganjenosti.

Medtem pa je postajala gostija živahnejša.

Izpočetka so bili očitno vsi pod težkim vtisom, toda s kozarci je prihajala fantazija v glavo gostov. Trušče je naraščalo.

Naposled je knez vstal.

„Jasna gospoda, prosim besede!“

„Gospod knez hoče govoriti...! Gospod knez hoče govoriti!“ so vpili od vseh strani.

„Prvo napitnico izrečem na zdravje najjasnejšega kralja švedskega, ki nam daje pomoč proti sovražnikom in vlada sedaj nad to pokrajino, ki je ne bo zapustil prej, dokler ne nastane mir. Vstanite, gospodje, ker ta zdravica se pije stoječ!“

Gostje so vstali razen žensk in izpraznili čaše, toda brez vzklikov, brez navdušenja. Gospod Ščanecki iz Dalmovja je nekaj zamrmral svojim sosedom, ti pa so si grizli brke, da bi ne bušili v smeh, ker se je najbrže norčeval iz švedskega kralja.

Šele ko je kralj nazdravil „ljubljenim gostom“, ki so drage volje prispeli celo iz daljnih krajev v Kejdane, da dokažejo svoje zaupanje v namene gospodarja, mu je odgovoril ogromen krik.

„Zahvalimo! Zahvalimo iz srca!“

„Na zdravje kneza-gospoda!“

„Na zdravje litevskega Hektorja!“

„Živel! Živel knez hetman, vojvoda naš!“

Vtem je gospod Južič, že nekoliko pijan, zakričal na ves glas.

„Živel Januš prvi, veliki knez litevski!“

Radzivil je zardel kakor devica, ko jo pridejo snubit, a ko je opazil, da zbrani gostje gluho molče in začudeno gledajo nanj, je rekel:

„Tudi to je v vaši moči, toda prežgogaj mi to, želiš, gospod Južič, prežgogaj!“

„Živel Januš prvi, veliki knez litevski!“ je ponovil uporno kakor pijanec gospod Južič.

Gospod Ščanecki je vstal nato in dvignil čašo:

„Tako je!“ je rekel hladnokrvno. „Veliki knez litevski, kralj poljski in cesar nemški!“

Vnovič je nastal trenutek molčanja, nakar so gostje bušili v glasen smeh. Oči so jim izstopile, brki so se majali na zardevlih obrazih in smeh je stresal njih telesa, se odbijal od obokov dvorane in trajal dolgo; a kakor naglo je nastal, tako naglo je tudi zamrl na vseh ustih ob pogledu na hetmanski obraz, ki se je izpreminjal kakor mavrica.

Radzivil pa je vendar potlačil strašno jezo, ki mu je kipel v prsih, ter dejal:

„Vi se šalite, gospod Ščanecki!“

Šlahčič pa se je našobil in brez vsake zadrege odgovoril:

„In sicer izborni kraljestvo, saj preveč ne moremo želeči vaši knežji milosti. Če, knežja milost, lahko postanete kot šlahčič kralj poljski, torej te lahko povisajo kot kneza nemške države na čast cesarja. Pa naj ti je daleč ali blizu do enega ali drugega, a kdor tega ne želi, naj vstane in mi ga takoj tu razsekamo s sabljami.“

Tu se je obrnil h gostom: „Vstanite, kdor ne želi cesarske nemške krona gospodu vojvodi vilenskemu!“

In res, nihče ni vstal. Tudi se niso smejali več, zakaj v glasu gospoda Ščaneckega je bilo toliko nesramne zlobe, da se je lotil vseh nehoti strah, kaj utegne nastati iz tega... .

Toda nič se ni zgodilo, le dobra volja je bila pokvarjena. Zaman so dvorski služabniki vsak hip polnili čaše. Vino ni moglo razpoditi temnih misli v glavah gostov, pa tudi ne rastočega nemira. Radzivil je ravno tako težko zakrival jezo, ker je čutil, da je po napitnici gospoda Ščaneckega ponižan v očeh zbrane šlahte in da je ta šlahčič hote ali nehoti vcepil v zbrano šlahto prepričanje, da ima vilenski vojvoda tako daleč do velikoknežje-ga prestola, kakor do nemške krone. Vse se je izpremenilo v šalo, v posmeh, in vendar je bila ta gostija prirejena največ radi tega, da bi si osvojil plemstvo z mislijo o bodočem vladanju Radzivilov. Še več, Radzivilu je šlo tudi za to, da bi tako smešne njegove vlade ne delovalo slabo tudi na one oficirje, ki so bili o stvari zaupno poučeni. In res se je brala na njihovih obrazih globoka nejevolja.

Ganchoff je praznil vrč in se izogibal knežjemu pogledu, gospod Kmitič pa ni pil, temveč zrl na mizo pred seboj z namršeni obri, kakor bi nekaj razmišljeval ali bojeval hud notranji boj. Radzivil je zardel ob misli, da bi se moglo v tej glavi vsak hip posvetiti in najti resnico v senc, in takrat bi ta oficir, tvorec edine vezi, ki družbi ostanke poljskih praporov z radzivilsko zadevo, raztrgal to vez, tudi če bi si moral s tem iztrgati srce iz prsi.

Kmitič je bil za Radzivila že pretežko breme in če bi ne imel onega čudovitega ugleda, ki so mu ga dali pretekli dogodki, bi bil že davno padel kot žrtev svoje drznosti in hetmanove jeze. Toda knez se je motil, ko ga je obsojal v tem hipu kot sovražnika njegove misli, saj je bil gospod Andrej ves zavzet ob misli na Olenko, in na oni globoki prepad, ki ju je ločil.

Sedaj se mu je zazdelo, da ljubito deklico, sedečo poleg njega, bolj nego ves svet, sedaj pa je čutil do nje tako sovražstvo, da bi jo usmrtil, če bi jo mogel, a potem še samega sebe.

Življenje ga je tako zmešalo, da je že postalo za to preprosto narav preveč težko. Čutil je torej to, kar čuti divja zver, ki se je zapletla v mrežo, a se ne more izmotati iz nje.

Nemirno in turobno razpoloženje vse veselice ga je neizmerno razdražilo. Bilo mu je naravnost neznošno.

Veselica pa je postajala vsak hip turobnejša. Navzočim se je zdelo, da se goste pod svinčeno streho, ki se razprostira nad njihovo glavo.

V tem je stopil nov gost v dvorano. Knez ga je zagledal in zaklical:

„Evo, gospod Subanec od brata Boguslava. Gotovo s pismi?“

Novi prišlec se je globoko priklonil.

„Da, prejasni knez, prihajam naravnost s Podlesja.“

„Daj mi, gospod, pisma, sam pa sedi k mizi! Gospodje mi bodo oprostili, če ne odložim čitanja, dasi smo pri zabavi, kajti morda najdem novice, ki bi jih rad delil z vami, gospoda. Gospod maršal, prosim, ne pozabite milega gosta.“

S temi besedami je vzel iz rok gospoda Subanca šop pisem in začel enemu lomiti pečate.

Navzoči so uprli svoje radovedne oči v njegov obraz in poziskovali uganiti vsebino pisma. Vendar prvo pismo ni vsebovalo nič ugodnega, zakaj kraljevo obličje se je zalilo s krvjo in oči so mu zablesčale v divji jezi.

„Gospodje bratje,“ je rekel hetman, „knez Boguslav mi javlja, da oni, ki so se rajši zvezali, nego šli nad sovražnika pod Vilno, sedaj pustošijo na Podlesju moja posestva. Seveda, je laže bojevati po vaseh z babami. Vrli vitezi, res! Ni vredno besede. Nič zato. Plačilo jim ne ide!“

Potem je vzel drugi list. Toda edva je vrgel pogled nanj, se mu je razjasnilo lice od zmaganosti in radosti.

„Seradsko vojvodstvo se je podalo švedom!“ je zakričal, „in je vzprejelo po vzgledu Velikopoljskega pokroviteljstva Karola Gustava.“

In čez hip zopet:

„Evo, poslednja pošta! Dobro za nas, gospodje! Jan Kazimir je pobit pri Vidavi in Zar-novu. Vojska ga zapuša. Sam se umika proti Krakovu, Švedi gredo za njim. Brat mi piše, da mora tudi Krakov pasti.“

„Veselimo se, gospodje!“ je dejal s čudnim glasom gospod Ščanecki.

In radost se je odbijala od vse knezove postave, obraz se je v hipu kakor pomladil, oči so se bleščale; od sreče mu je drgetala roka, ko je trgal pečat z zadnjega lista. Pogledal je in zardel ves kakor solnce in kriknil:

„Varšava je vzeta! Živel Karol Gustav!“

Sedaj je šele opazil, da je vtis, ki ga napravljajo te vesti na navzoče, čisto drugačen od onega, ki ga je kazal sam. Zakaj vsi so sedeli molče, gledajoč z negotovim pogledom predse. Nekateri so grbančili čelo, drugi so si zakrivali z rokami obraz. Še celo hetmanski dvorjani, še celo lahkoživci ljudje si niso upali slediti knežjemu veselju ob novici, da je Varšava vzeta, da mora Krakov pasti, in da vojvodstva drugo za drugim zapuščajo pravega vladarja in se podajajo sovražniku. Bilo je pri tem nekaj nenaravnega v tem zadovoljstvu, s kakršnim je načelni vojskovodja in eden izmed najuglednejših senatorjev ljudovlade naznanil njene poraze. Knez je uvidel, da mora popraviti vtis.

„Gospodje,“ je dejal, „jaz bi bil prvi, ki bi plakal z vami, če bi šlo za škodo ljudovlade, toda pri tem ljudovlada ne trpi nobene škode, temveč menja samo gospodarja. Mesto nesrečnega Jana Kazimirja, bo imela velikega in srečnega vojskovodjo. Jaz že vidim, da je konec vsem vojniam in da so sovražniki pobiti.“

„Prav ima vaša knežja milost,“ je odgovoril Ščanecki. „Dobesedno isto sta govorila Radziejovski in Opalinski pod Ust-tem... . Veselimo se, gospodje! Na pogibelj Janu Kazimirju!“

Po teh besedah je gospod Ščanecki sunil z ropotom stol, vstal in zapustil dvorano.

AMERICAN HOME JUNIOR

Ray J. Grdina Says

Cooperation

We would like to draw on the recent Notre Dame-Pitt massacre as an example for a point we have in mind. We hope our readers will pardon us for encroaching upon Eddie's sport territory in so doing.

Eye witnesses of the Irish triumph tell us no one individual on the Rockne team could be picked as the outstanding star, despite the numerous long runs, which gave to the first half the appearance of a track meet. Yet every man on the starting eleven is a star of the first water, with the first two backfields representing All-American timber. That represents only one thing—perfect coordination on the part of every player. Those long runs would have been impossible had the runner not had the blocking and interfering assistance of the other ten men on the field. Pictures of the game substantiate this. They very clearly show the Notre Dame interference cutting down the Panthers, leaving a clear path to the goal line for the ball carrier.

Here then we have a case of eleven players, all of the very best, each a star in his own right, sacrificing their individuality for team play. Had they not done so, Notre Dame would still be good, this because of the greatness and skill of each individual. But now, with the individual merged into the spirit of the team, they are far better than good, they represent the acme of football perfection and are practically unbeatable.

Forgetting one's self for the sake of the team is a real sacrifice. The dream of every football player is to be placed on the All-American team. Undoubtedly every one of Rockne's first string backs is good enough for a position on the mythical eleven, yet we are willing to wager no more than one will be so honored. Which recalls the case of the famous Four Horsemen. This backfield quartet was undoubtedly the best set of ball totters in the country and only one of them was given an All-American berth—a sacrifice to cooperation and team play.

The same is true in business or in anything else where many people work together. Often a really capable man fails because he tried to hog the center of the stage and hog the whole show. And often as not his personal failure entails the failure of the organization. Had the individual sacrificed personal glory for the company, both would have fared better in the end. Our own Josiah Kirby and his Discount Co. is a splendid example of this.

To seek petty, immediate triumphs instead of earning and waiting for the approval of one's own conscience and of those who really understand is a mark of inferiority. Equally, it is a barrier to usefulness, a seeker of glory is an egotistical man and as such is necessarily selfish and a selfish man cannot cooperate. True success comes only with cooperation.

Let us all then follow the example set by Knute K. Rockne's gridiron warriors. Forget yourself and pull for the team under whose colors you are playing this game of life. Maybe the plaudits of the world at large will never be yours, but those who understand will know and appreciate and yet will have something greater than public bouquets—personal satisfaction and peace of heart and mind that comes with a task well done!

A Merchant Speaks
Mr. N. Bohar, a member of the St. Clair Merchants' Improvement Association, speaks his mind about the question of keeping St. Clair clean in a letter to this column. His letter, in full, follows:

Cleveland, O., Oct. 29, 1930
To the Editor of the "American Home Junior":
Dear Sir:

As a member of the St. Clair Merchants' Improvement Association, permit me to commend you and your paper for the energy, time and space given, trying to help keep St. Clair Ave. clean.

If all of the merchants, those within and those outside of the association, would devote as much energy and time as you have, doing their share, St. Clair Ave. would not be in the position to compete with Woodland Ave. as being the dirtiest street in the City of Cleveland.

In the last issue of the "American Home Junior" you've asked especially the merchants, to give some definite plans in regards to this matter. Allow me then, Mr. Editor, to make a few suggestions that may help some on the above named question.

Let us analyze the matter very much as a doctor analyzes the sickness of a human being. Finding the source first and then prescribing the cure. The source of the dirt on St. Clair Ave. comes from many angles. The worst offenders are the newspaper delivery trucks. They throw all the old papers on the streets. Next in line come the meat packing delivery trucks. Before they deliver the meat in the meat markets, they unwrap it and what do you suppose they do with the paper? Why on the street it goes. When some merchants have a very peculiar habit in uncrating all their boxes in the street. All the paper in those boxes scatters all over the street. Thence more paper.

Then comes the storekeeper who sweeps his floor out in the street. Small bits but they spread very

PLANE CONTEST EXTENDED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

"Mix" Modic to Have Lucky Winner as Guest for Entire Day

APPLICATIONS POUR IN

Prize Offered in Drawing Contest Won at Mask Ball

Contrary to previous announcements the drawing contest conducted by this paper for the purpose of selecting a flying companion for "Mix" Modic will not come to a close until Wednesday, Nov. 5.

A last minute rush of applicants convinced us that not enough time was allotted to the contest so as to permit all desiring to enter. Then, too, "Mix" has added to his original offer to the winner and this addition no doubt will attract more contestants.

Modic wants to make this "Airplane Ride" contest a big thing so he has decided that not only will the winner be his guest in the air ride, but also for the balance of the afternoon and will be taken to whatever place the winner will choose to go. Meaning that "Mix" will take the lucky winner to either a show, dinner or on a sightseeing tour, which will include some of Cleveland's most interesting spots.

The contest is a result of Mr. Modic winning first prize at the recent Strugglers' mask ball. The prize was two tickets entitling "Mix" and anyone whom he may choose to an airplane ride over the city of Cleveland conducted by the Skyway Inc. The gentleman in question is a very popular young man and rather than run the risk of slighting any of his many friends by making the selection himself he came to the American Home Junior for aid in picking his lucky individual.

Already the number of applications has passed the hundred mark and with the time extended it is expected that number will be almost doubled. However the final date of entry is Wednesday noon, Nov. 5. This is absolutely final, no further extension will be made. The date of the flight will then be decided upon by the generous "Mix" and the fortunate contestant.

Rules of the contest are as simple as they are few, all one has to do to enter is to send in his or her name and address to this paper and the person will then be eligible for the contest. Nobody is barred, everyone being eligible to compete regardless of age, sex, state of life or nationality. So all of you readers who would like the opportunity of riding over the city of Cleveland—free—just send five days remain in which to submit your application, so mail them today. There is absolutely no hitch connected to it, you won't be asked to subscribe to anything or sell perfume or post cards or pictures. Nothing like that at all. Just a FREE airplane ride as the guest of "Mix" Modic!

PRAZNIK-MIKLAVCIC TO BE WED

Nuptial Ceremonies to Take Place at St. Mary's Tomorrow

Father Hribar of St. Mary's Church will read the nuptial mass at 10:30 tomorrow for Miss Antoinette Praznik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Urban Praznik, 951 E. 23rd St., and Joseph Miklavcic Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Miklavcic Sr., 295 E. 164th St. Attending the couple will be Miss Marie Praznik, maid of honor; the Misses Helen Miklavcic, Antoinette Jerele and Alice Omerza bridesmaids; Charles Starman, best man; and Messrs. Anthony Omeron, John Omerza and Edward Miklavcic, ushers.

Joseph Uile, accordionist will entertain at the reception, which will be given at the Slovenian Workingmen's Home, Waterloo Rd. in the evening. The newlyweds will be at home at 16313 Huntmore Ave.

"THE MIKADO"

Miss Molly Kozely to Appear in Theater of Nations Production

Miss Molly Kozely, Slovenian singer will appear in the Theater of Nations' opening production, "The Mikado," at the Music Hall Sunday evening Nov. 2. Miss Kozely will sing in the chorus.

The opera presentation is given under the sponsorship of the Ami Opera Guild.

quickly all over the avenue. It's not necessary to mention any more sources of filth givers. The question now arising is how to clean up St. Clair Ave? I for one, am in favor of starting a campaign of education among ourselves, the merchants. It is a vital question and so let us keep it concentrated in our minds. Let us start up a slogan. The barbers have one, it says, "It pays to look well." We can have one, "It pays to keep St. Clair Ave clean."

Thank you for your kind words, Mr. Bohar, but really we haven't done a thing yet. Evidently you've studied the question quite seriously and we therefore appreciate and value your suggestions. Perhaps more of the merchants have some suggestions to offer. Let's hear from you!

HALLOWE'EN

HIS ONE BIG NIGHT

TRIGLAV TO OFFER LIGHT COMEDY FOR FIRST PRODUCTION

AT NATIONAL HOME

"Lady Windermere's Fan" to Be an Elaborately Costumed Presentation

"Lady Windermere's Fan," a sprightly, four-act English comedy, will open up Triglav's current theatrical season. The production is to be given at the Slovenian National Home this Sunday evening at 7:30.

Despite the string of past dramatic successes scored by the club, the coming offering appears to be the outstanding and most pretentious ever presented. The second act, which calls for an elaborate ball room scene, is being given special attention by Director M. J. Grdina. Much time and money is being spent on this particular scene alone and undoubtedly it will be one of the grandest ever offered on the local Slovenian stage.

Of special interests to feminine theater goers should be the gowns worn by the ladies of the cast in this act. The script calls for formal attire and the ladies will wear the latest creations in accordance with their parts of English nobility.

A most talented cast, headed by Mrs. F. M. Jakovic as Lady Windermere, is at the disposal of the Triglav director. Maxine Steinitz, who scored such a decided hit as the maid in the recent "Cat and the Canary" production, assumes a major role in Sunday's presentation. Others having prominent parts are Frank Drassler, Leo Virant, Dr. Mally, Josephine Haffner and J. J. Grdina.

Rehearsals have been going on for the past month and the curtain call will find the group letter perfect in their parts. Tickets are now on sale at Kushlan's Confectionery at Slovenian National Home, St. Clair Ave.

Happiness in this world, when it comes, comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us on a wild goose chase, and is never attained. —Hawthorne.

IT'S SPOOKY TIME TODAY

But Miss Helen Mertic Sees Ghost Before Time

HALLOWE'EN isn't officially here until this evening and the ghosts and goblins are not supposed to prowling about until after dark tonight, but Miss Helen Mertic already comes to the fore with the first spook story of the season. The young lady retired Sunday evening, for a while all was quite. Then an unearthly scream startled the entire household from their slumber and sent them scurrying to Miss Helen's room, the source of the cry. Investigations revealed nothing further than Helen in a state of chattering teeth, knocking knees and tumbled wits and nerves.

According to the heroine's account no sooner had she gotten into bed an unshapely, white figure rose out of nowhere, leered at her and then disappeared as she screamed.

Miss Josephine "Pep" Smolik, in the house at the time is being held in suspicion by local crime and ghost investigators, though no arrest has been made as yet. Beware "pep" these mysteries have gone far enough.

CARD PARTY

The bride-elect and groom will make Parrell, Pa., their home.

SPEAKER

Young Lad Surprises Friends and Relatives With Oratorical Abilities

Thirteen-year-old James Schnell surprised the 125 guests gathered at a reception in his honor at the family residence, 855 E. 128th St., last Sunday, with a lengthy speech in which he expressed his appreciation of the upright training his parents had given him.

The occasion of the reception was the lad's confirmation at the Teliever Synagogue the day before. He received many appropriate gifts from the guests, thanks for which was included in the youth's speech.

JUGOSLAV SLOVENES HAVE "BLIND" DATES

The Yugoslav Slovene girls did something unusual last Tuesday. A party of 15 members appeared in the clubroom of the Grasselli Home for the Blind, 2275 E. 55th St., and made a most enjoyable evening possible for the blind men.

It was a short time ago that the club members heard that the blind men enjoy dancing, but being sightless, either totally or partially, they could not very well help themselves out in their favored pastime. Then, when an invitation was issued to the Yugoslav girls asking them to join in a dance, they accepted most graciously.

Of course, at first the affair was somewhat strange, you might say awkward. The girls had to ask the blind men and boys for the dance, and lead them about the floor. However, it did not take long until the dance had the swing of any ordinary social. The blind dancers were so appreciative, they followed so easily and they were such interesting conversationalists, that the girls were having an equally pleasant time.

The music consisted of a piano and saxophone duet and during the intermissions Mr. Metcalf, the well known Cleveland organist, entertained with several selections.

In chatting with their partners, the Yugoslav girls were surprised at their cheerfulness and good humor. Later, they marvelled at the hand work that is done by the men and women at the home during the day.

DON'T FORGET THAT TUESDAY NOV. 4 IS ELECTION DAY. GET OUT AND CAST YOUR VOTE FOR YOUR FRIENDS!

They were shown exquisite carpet and linen weaving in network, designs, gay patterned hook rugs, attractive and neat aprons, beautiful silk stitched comforters and colorful bath mats. They also saw the loom on which most of the weaving is done, and which are operated by the workers; solely on the touch and memorization system. Due to the fact the broom factory was not open they were invited to visit it any time during the day.

Among the girls who attended the affair were: the Misses Honey Gornik, Maxine Steinitz, Frances Knaus, Frances Okorn, Mary Skoda, Josephine Zulich, Alice and Jean Jezek, Marie and Martha Shabadnik, Anne Drenik, Rose Basca, Pauline Viderovoi and "Patsy" Modic.

Miss Gornik, the president of the organization is grateful to the members for their kind association.

ANDERSON TEAM CAPTURES FIRST IN COLLECTION

Last-Minute Rush Gives Scout Group Special and Main Awards

SULAK'S SQUAD SECOND

Paper Collecting Campaign Is Part of Finance Plan

With almost three-quarter ton of paper to their credit during the two weeks of the paper collecting campaign, the scout team, captained by Vic Anderson edged out Teddy Sulak's squad for the grand prize.

Not only did the last minute finish give the winners the grand award, but won for them the special prize of $2 of scouting equipment given by the Tribe Guide Felix A. Danton to the squad securing the largest number of ponds during the second week of the campaign. The big prize entitles the winners to a free stay at the three-day Thanksgiving camp at the Boy Scout Reservation at Chagrin Falls, O.

The collection was made as part of the financial plan of the local Silver Fox Tribe inaugurated recently by the Tribe Treasurer Dr. James W. Mally. The contest provided for a house-to-house campaign, covering all the territory between E. 55th and E. 79th Sts., north of Superior Ave.

For the contest the tribe was divided into teams captained by Vic Anderson, Teddy Sulak, John Dejak and Albin Mavey. Assisting Captain Vic Anderson of the winning squad were Arthur Allich and Anthony Papes. Singularly, this squad was the smallest of any competing and did all their collecting in a four-day period.

The special prize award for the first week went to Teddy Sulak's group who turned in 1,023 pounds to beat out the Anderson crew by 19 pounds. However, in the second week the latter group turned in almost 200 pounds more than did the first week's winners, giving themselves the second week award and the grand prize.

Tribe Guide Danton and treasurer Dr. James W. Mally were more than pleased with the results of the campaign, expressing surprise at the spirit with which the boys carried on the contest. This splendid showing will serve as an incentive for the tribe governing committee to carry on the financial program by means of which it hopes to make the neighborhood group one of the best equipped scouting organization in the city of Cleveland.

According to the scout policy, monetary donations are not to be accepted as it is preferred to have the scouts earn the money themselves. Thus when the St. Clair Merchants' Improvement Association accepted sponsorship of the Silver Fox Tribe they were unable to aid the tribe financially. As a result Dr. Mally devised the financial plan whereby the scouts themselves could earn enough money to fully equip the tribe. The past paper-collecting campaign was the first step of this financial scheme and already the tribe heads are laying further plans for the continuance of the financial campaign.

"BLIND MAN'S STUFF"

Miss Alice Jezek Tries to Be Sociable and Then Makes Blunder

It seems that every social affair has some humorous or at least some embarrassing thing to it. In this case the incident was somewhat embarrassing.

The scene was the Blind men's dance Tuesday. Miss Alice Jezek found her partner quite a nice dancer, and then she thought she might tell him of the large crowd that was gathered there, believing him to be unaware of it. Following her remark, the young man smiled and answered, "Yes I know I'm not blind." And he was not. Much to Miss Jezek's embarrassment he was one of the few masculine guests.

Theresa Dolsak Recovering From Appendicitis Operation at Local Hospital

Miss Theresa Dolsak, popular member of Strugglers Lodge No. 614 SNRP, underwent an appendicitis operation at Glenville Hospital last week. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dolsak, 448 E. 158th St.

According to the latest reports, the patient is recovering rapidly, and she is able to receive visitors.

The greatest misfortune of all is not to be able to bear misfortune.

Bits About Them

MANICURIST

And today we have for your delectation a young lady who is a specialist in putting the finishing touches and that red and white color scheme to your nails.

MISS VICTORIA M. KMET

Is a grad from the St. Vitus and Notre Dame schools of learning. Turned out of latter institution in the year of 1927 A. D. (After Dark).

Uses orange rouge and Fleure de Paris parfumerie (triple strength) and has an uncanny yearning for waffles as put out by Childs chop houses.

Claims she is a manicurist because she loves to hold hands. And is one of the charter members of the Yugoslav Slovene Club.

Likewise acknowledges allegiance to the Mary Magdalene group of Kayes-kajay, Triglav and the Royal Order of Sugatzes.

Has a passion for color green with brown next in line. Room is trimmed in orchid and green and she just dotes on the flicker femme Vilma Banky. Also has a hankering for Vilma's sparrin' partner, little Ronald Coleman.

When she isn't working or spending the day in movie houses she goes in for reading, bearing down on the works of Rex Beach, Kathleen Norris and at present is turning the pages of Back Street, latest thing from the pen of Fannie Hurst. Goes likewise for pop mag Cosmopolitan.

Is trying desperately to attain the height of 5 foot 2, but has only reached the 5 and 1/2 mark. Is still trying, however. Saw the light of day in this city on Dec. 5, 1908.

Has an ambition of seeing Colorado some day. Almost got there two years ago, but something turned up and caused the postponement of the trip.

Weights 120 before meals and 122 after. Claims she'll eat anything at meal times, but must have oranges and cookies in between. Oranges are now so high she has converted her taste over to grapes.

Her present employment at Grdina's Shoppe is her first. Middle monicker is "Marie" and nickname is "Taxi," this coming about during reign of Red Top Taxe Co.

Hair appears to reporter's damaged optics as red though she claims it to be sunburn. Has ornaments to match every dress, but they are of very simple type.

Most embarrassing mom occurred while shopping for friend's last Christmas. Was trying to get set of male pajamas. Approached gentleman behind counter and without thinking asked, "Where do you keep your pajamas?" Both blushed. Fortunately audience wasn't very large.

Though "Sun of the Gods" was best picture filmed last year. Never had a picture taken except one in family group taken about ten years ago.

Sleeps in a Simmons Iron Bed and quite often takes in three shows in one day. Lives with family at 3922 St. Clair Ave. Besides mater and pater has two sisters, both younger.

Plays cards and leans toward Rummy with monetary payments at the end of each session. Almost fell off horse once. The horse fell, but she managed to hang on much to disgust of animal.

At present is nursing a cold with the aid of man sized hankerchiefs. Has big part in coming Triglav production, says "Yes, Mamma" no less than twelve times.

Family tried real hard to make an artist out of her. Had four years of painting and then three of china painting. All she has now to show for it is a mass of disfigured vases and dishes—so she claims.

Is very witty and lays no claim to be a household mechanic though she can cook a presentable meal according to all available reports.

Does not believe Louise Fazenda's saying, "A lady with red hair has to live up to it." Once spent a vacation in Detroit with girl companions much to sorrow of friends who listened to tale of wonders of Ford City for months afterward.

While in the Michigan metropolis, parked her bag in the Booke-Cadillac hostelry and did all her riding in taxis. Prefers the movies by far to the legit stage.

Is still in the open field and some day hopes to adopt an orphan.

Voice From the Stands

Whatta Team!

This Irish team from South Bend, certainly takes the cake when it comes to displaying some real high class football. The greatest coach of all time, Knute Rockne, himself states that it's the best he has ever coached. There is some discussion concerning the backfield of the present day aggregation and that of five or six years ago, known as the Four Horseman. Carideo, Savoldi, Brill and Schwartz comprise the foursome behind the Irish line, and each one is a luminary in the nth degree and as good as Layden, Miller, Crowley and Stuhldreher were in their time.

The real advantage Rockne has in the 1930 squad is that his shock troops are nearly as capable as his regulars, for if Mullins goes in for Savoldi or if Koken goes in for Brill, the back field is just as strong as ever, thus proving the old adage that a team is just as good as its substitutes.

Undoubtedly the Notre Dame aggregation is the best in the country, and is bent on capturing the national title. Already they have four victories against leading teams of the country such as Navy, Southern Methodist U. and last Saturday's decisive defeat of the Pittsburgh Panthers. In beating Pitt, Notre Dame spoiled a two-year record for the Panthers, and also distinguished themselves as high scorers against the Pennsylvanians.

What makes Rockne's wins more impressive is the fact every team on the schedule, which includes Northwestern, Indiana, Southern California U., and Army besides the above named teams points toward the Notre Dame contest as the big one and therefore prime themselves chiefly to overthrow the South Benders. But in spite of this handicap the Irish eleven always manages to end the game on the long end of the score, and we believe will keep this up until the end of the season.

Not Allibing
Maybe this should have been mentioned some time ago, but we'll go right ahead and let you in on the know. Somehow or other the local newspapers overlooked the fact, therefore we will attempt to straighten out a point or two about the almost forgotten Frankie Simms-Babe Hunt brawl a while back. To all those who witnessed the imbroglio, will recall that in about the fifth round Frankie stopped using his most devastating punch, his over hand right. Seeing Frankie the next day we noticed the thumb on his right hand, swelled about thrice its normal size. Upon inquiring it was learned that the break came in the fifth chapter, from whence on, the useless right lay at Frankie's side, robbing him of a chance to put the K. O. mark on Hunt.

Undaunted, Frankie claims he will be back in harness shortly to vindicate himself of his last setback.

By JOSEPH A. KRIZMAN
(Continuation)

The other point of interest was the famous Sing Sing Prison at Ossining on the Hudson River. When I was at Sing Sing Sunday afternoon the convicts were having a game of baseball, which was very well attended.

The guard informed me that to go through the prison it is necessary to get written permission from the Commissioner of Correction at Albany. I'll see him yet.

Last night (Aug. 31) I was offered a ride by three men who seemed to be "under the weather." As I was very tired and would have accepted a ride from most anyone I got in with them. The first place we went to was a speakeasy in Peekskill. I had three beers—yes, it was good beer, too.

Since they promised to give me a ride of about five miles out of the town I stuck right with them. But those were five long miles. About three telegraph poles were put so close to the curb that the driver thought they were in the middle of the road just for him to run into. Thrice they got in his way and thrice he missed each one by a hair's breadth. Then we got out on the highway which had three lanes, the center lane being for passing only. Traffic was heavy. It seemed to the driver that the right lane was not only much narrower than the other two lanes, but altogether too close to the ditch. As he believed in "safety" first he chose the middle lane—20 miles per hour.

I was afraid he would decide to take the extreme left lane, which was for traffic going the other direction, so I asked him to let me drive the car, but he felt insulted. It was not long before we heard a dozen horns in back of us. Every now and then a machine would whiz by on our left and—oh!—the language some of those drivers used in expressing their opinion of our driver, was terrible. It was very expressive of their wrath and ire aroused by a slight inconvenience.

After spending part of the night on soft grass, and when it started to rain on a concrete floor and finally in a canvas chair, I started out for Albany this morning at about 5:30. The day was rather uneventful, except that holiday travel is very discouraging to travelers like myself. Not until 11 o'clock did I get a ride, but that was all the way into Albany.

CARROLL TEAM TO PLAY WILMINGTON AT LUNA TONIGHT

LAST NOCTURNAL GAME

Davis-Elkins Cops Verdict as Jay Sees Weaken at End

For three quarters last Friday night it looked as if one of our local colleges would jump into national prominence. But, yes, for only three-quarters, but every football tilt must go four-quarters before it's called a complete game. To make a long story short, our own John Carroll aggregation, was leading the strong West Virginians from Davis and Elkins by a 7 to 6 score.

This was due to a pass Gibbons threw to Moran on the second play of the game, which Moran ran 60 yards to convert into a touchdown. A line play netted the extra point. In the same quarter D-E retaliated with a touchdown but missed the try for extra point.

The ball saw-sawed for the next two quarters, but the Jay Sees weakened and saw D-E march to its second touchdown of the night, after they blocked a punt on Carroll's 19-yard line at the start of the last quarter. The heavier West Virginian club ran rough shod over the lighter West Side aggregation for two more tallies before the final gun blasted, making the score 27 to 6.

Tonight, in its last nocturnal contest, Carroll meets another Ohio foe in Wilmington. In its last contest Wilmington beat Cedarville College 30 to 0 and may prove a bigger obstacle than suspected, although Carroll should not find it difficult to dispose of their downstate rivals. Game time is scheduled as usual at 8 p. m.

JOSEPH KRIZMAN AT JUGO-SLAV LEGATION IN WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington, D. C.
Sept. 13, 1930.

Readers:
Tuesday, Sept. 2d, I started out from Albany at 2 p. m. bound for Montreal.

Although traffic was very heavy, I had to walk several miles before two colored boys came along in a 1930 model Cadillac Sedan. After the driver had a close shave and narrowly missed having a head-on collision with a five-ton truck, he asked me if I was scared, but I assured him that since I have been on the road, I experienced so many close shaves and narrow escapes that my nerves have been steel-ed against most anything that might happen and no danger could scare me. With that assurance he "stepped on it" and it did not take us long to reach Saratoga Springs, their destination.

The main street of Saratoga Springs was full of flags, banners and "welcome" signs. Since I was quite certain that those decorations were not for me, I inquired of a passer-by the nature of the festive occasion. With a surprised look in his eyes he told me that the American Legion were having some big doings there.

Fortunately, Saratoga Springs is not a big city. I say fortunately because it was getting late in the afternoon and I was in no mood for a long hike through a big city. The chances of getting a lift that would amount to anything in a city are practically nil and it is a waste of time to try.

A short distance past the city limits I was given a ride by a builder who was going to Glens Falls. Somehow or other our conversation drifted into the topic of smuggling liquor from Canada. He gave me some rather interesting information on that subject.

He told me that a friend of his who is a travelling salesman goes to Montreal regularly every two weeks on business. This salesman does not drink so for the three years that he has been going into Canada, he never tried to bring back any liquor with him and at no time was his car searched.

Just before he went to Canada on his regular trip, a short time ago, some friends asked him to bring some liquor from Canada for a party they were going to have. He complied with their request and purchased six quarts of those choice liquors which it is so easy to get in Montreal. Of course, he was confident that he would be permitted to pass by without search as on all the other occasions, but when he came to the border he learned that he was sadly mistaken. The customs officer, with whom he had become acquainted in the course of his past visits, went into this salesman's car and brought out the six quarts in very short time. That meant the loss of the liquors as well as a $30 fine. (Fine for beer is $2 a bottle.)

This prompt action of search and seizure raised the salesman's suspicion that "There is something rotten in Denmark," which he could not quite comprehend. He asked the inspector why it was that never before in all the past three years has his car been searched, but just now when he was trying to bring in a few drinks for his friends, his car is searched for the first time. The inspector, being a friend of the salesman (but honest in the performance of his duty), told him: "Next time you buy some stuff, don't drive your car right in front of the government store and carry the bottles into the car so that surely everybody can see it." In other words, as one friend of mine would put it: "You've got to use your head—sometimes."

We arrived in Glens Falls after 6 p. m. It was close to seven when I passed the city limits of that town. Between 7 and 8 in the evening is a very poor time for getting a lift. That is the time the sweethearts of

The young lady pictured above is Frankie Doljak, better known as "Peck." Last year she kept the St. Ann's Blonds in the running for the Inter-Frat title. This year she's changed uniforms and Sokol Coach Vic Zastel is counting on her to aid his team in keeping the league crown.

Frankie Doljak Signs for 1931 With Detroit

Slovenian Outfielder With Team at Sacramento, Cal., Next February

Next February will see a Slovenian youngster go off to Sacramento, Cal., and work himself into shape to play in the outfield for the Detroit Tigers. Yes, Frankie Doljak has signed for the 1931 season with the same team he finished with last year.

In the few games Frankie performed in with the major league club, he has shown creditably, hitting at a fair clip, getting three home runs among some doubles and a number of singles.

As is usually the case with a rookie, the opposing players immediately proceeded to test his arm. There were a few teams who tried it, but found out it was sure death to attempt beating Frankie's arm, as he has a bullet whip that is fast and true.

Asked if he played against Joe Kuhel, he remarked, "No I don't even know Joe. We played Washington four games at the end of the season, but the club left Joe in Cleveland, so I didn't get a chance to see him."

Well when these two boys meet on the diamond next summer they'll be able to exchange good luck greetings in their mother tongue, Slovenian.

these country towns go out for a spin. In those cases appearances are very deceiving. When it seemed that there was only the driver in the car, I found out when the car passed me that there were two people in the car and those two always looked like one. Well, I've been young once myself, and I could readily understand it. It would have been folly to ask them for a ride.

In French Mountain, which is five miles from Glens Falls, I asked a young man, in a Ford coupe, who had to stop for a red light, for a ride. He must have been tired of driving alone and desired company, for he was very glad to have me with him. In the course of our conversation we touched on nearly all possible topics—prohibition, politics, gangsterism, conditions in the country generally, etc. He considered the story of my travels and adventures very interesting. He expressed regrets that we had to part in Chester town as he had to take a different road there. To my surprise, he thanked me for the company and offered me $2 so I could spend the night in a hotel as it had just started to rain. While it was not unprecedented, this piece of luck was very opportune as I was very tired, anxious to take a bath and looking for some place where I could "do my laundry."

The next thing on the program for that evening was to find a hotel or

CLAIRWOODS TAKE THREE

Utopians Stay Undefeated as Pioneers Fail to Appear

Whatever noise there was at the Eddy Alleys last Sunday came from the direction of alleys 9 and 10, and all this because here was the scene of a great battle between two outstanding quintets, both fighting tooth and nail for victory. After the smoke of battle had cleared, the Spartans emerged victors in two of the fracas, while the George Washingtons cashed in on the odd win.

Steve Wysopal of the winners was the big noise and thorn in his opponents' side, getting a 663 series to carry off individual honors for the day. His single game score of 246 was also the best any of the Inter-Lodge rollers could do during the afternoon. Opalek, with a 628 series to his credit was the shining light of the losers.

It was a match that placed a group of good youngsters against a group of veterans, with the oldtimers leading the way. By virtue of their wins the Spartans are now tied for second place with the Arcadians and the Clairwoods. The Arcadian club dropped two to the S. Y. M. C. while last year's champs captured all three from Cleveland No. 9. Pekol rolled a neat game of 245 to help his team save off a shutout at the hands of the Young Men.

The Utopians remained the only undefeated team in the league by virtue of taking three games from the Pioneers via the forfeit route. This gives the league leaders a record of six straight.

The Booster-Loyalites mixup gave the Boosters two victories over their bowled best in this match.

The strong Sokol quintet managed to take two games from the fifth place Comrades, with Joe Rupnik battering the pins for a 637 series, ending the mixup with a 235 game.

Fighting for the cellar berth, the Orels gave way three times to the Betsy Ross flagmakers to take undisputed hold on last place.

Sunday's features bring together the Utopians and Arcadians on 9 and 10, while Spartans tangle with the Clairwoods on 13 and 14.

a room for the night that was "reasonable." I went to one house that had seven outside "Rooms for Tourists." When I inquired of the woman who answered the doorbell, the price of a room for one, she told me that the cheapest she had was $3. I then told her that what I wanted was just one room for one night not the whole house, and left.

The next house that had rooms for tourists, had a restaurant in the front of the house. An old man was sitting on the doorstep and I asked him if I could get a room and how much. He said I could get a room, but did not know the price which could be arranged with the girl in the restaurant in the morning. Then he took me upstairs.

City Baseball Champions Attend Banquet

Four Slovenian Teams Given Trophies at C. A. B. A. A. Affair Wednesday

All the baseball champs of the city congregated at the Public Hall last Wednesday to be feted and entertained by the C. A. B. A. A. Among the champions were four teams whose rosters carried a majority of Slovenian players, namely the Gornik Habs, Major Indoor, Minar Sweets, Class D, Grisetti Restaurants, Class B, and the White Motors, Industrial consolation champs.

Among the entertainers "Red" Manning brought with him from the WTAM studio were such prominent performers as Joe Baldie, Russell Neff and Pat Haley. Topping this high class entertainment was Eleanor Wittenberg, protégé of Bill Robinson. Eleanor gave a perfect imitation of the well known colored dancer. Ed Bang of the News, Mayor Marshall and park director Sam Newman all gave short speeches stressing the importance of amateur baseball to Cleveland.

Leslie Mann, former major league star with the Boston Braves showed motion pictures of the last world series, at the same time pointing out the good and bad points of each individual player. Pictures of Amateur Day were also shown. The evening came to a close with the presentation of trophies to the winners by chairman of the commission Fred Roth.

GORNIKS REPLACE GRDINAS AT HEAD OF NORWOOD LOOP

Habs Bowls 2756 to Take Three in a Row From the Morticians in League Feature

DEMISHARS ROLL 2823

Leaskovec Leads in Averages With Season Mark of 186

The Gornik Habs forged to the front in the Norwood League by trouncing the Grdina and Sons in three straight games, thereby wresting first place from their grasp. In order to be able to win the Gorniks were forced to bowl a 2756 series, but this was not the best series of the evening as the Demishar Builders toppled the woods for 2823 to cop first for the high, and Bukovniks running second with 2767 as their best.

The best series of the night was a 622 rolled by L. Sterle. Opalek came next with 607 and Bokar third with 598.

High single games were Bokar 227, Leskovec 225, L. Sterle 222 and 210, Tich 224, Tekavec 210 and 211, Opalek 223 and 213, Emmke 222 and Shuster 221.

Tony Leskovec, local sandlot pitcher, took the lead in the averages by virtue of a 186 mark. Harry Lausche, last week's leader dropped to seventh place with a 181 count. Frankie Simms, heavyweight boxer, is tied for third place with Slogar and Frank Fiftol. All have 183 pins to their credit.
