Greeks and Jugoslavs Air Hopes for New Frontiers

Washington.—The Athens radio reported that "during the second conference of Churchill with His Grace the Regent, Premier Plastiras and Minister of Foreign Affairs Sophianopoulos, the Greek authorities again broadly elaborated on Greek claims and needs of the country after the devastation it suffered."

The broadcast, relayed to OWI by FCC monitors, pointed out that the "views expressed by the Greek government were favorably received by the British premier who, in his speech, expressed his wishes and hopes of a great future for Greece, and for justification of its hard struggles."

Meanwhile the French European service, in a Greek language broadcast relayed to OWI, quoted the Greek minister for foreign affairs, Sophianopoulos, as having stated in a press interview on February 17:

"Without nursing any imperialistic aims, we mean to ask for reparations for all destruction and damage suffered in the past by purely Greek populations. We are convinced that our Allies, without deviating from their principal war aims, will agree to a modification of our frontiers at specific weak points which in the past have permitted foreign leaders to violate our soil, in such a way as to make such invasion impossible in the future."

According to the broadcast, Sophianopoulos concluded by stressing the importance of "demographic problems which, in his opinion, are the principal reason of the social and political instability of the country, because such problems compel Greek populations to live under lamentable conditions."

"On Frebruary 15 a committee from northern Epirus, led by the Metropolitan of Argyrocastro, presented a resolution to Anthony Eden through the British embassy, asking the British government's support to the union of northern Epirus with Mother Greece," the Athens radio revealed in a broadcast recorded for OWI.

In Yugoslavia, "immediately after his arrival in Belgrade, Premier Subasic endorsed Tito's claims concerning Trieste and Istria," the French Telegraph Service said in a transmission recorded for OWI.

The French agency's correspondent, Vincent Laptev, quoted Subasic as declaring:

"I hope that the Allies will allow us to claim these regions for the Jugoslav motherland. Unlike in 1919, we will not agree that 1,000,000 Jugoslavs should remain outside our frontiers."

MEETING

All members of Lodge "Zdrženje bratje," No. 26 SNPJ, are requested to attend an important meeting to be held on Sunday, June 3, at the Slovene Workmen's Home, Waterloo Rd. Elections will be held for delegates to the convention, which will take place in Eveleth, Minnesota on August 13.

WAR BOND DRIVE CONTEST

During the Seventh War Loan Drive a contest is being held among the volunteers who are canvassing from house to house selling War Bonds. War Bonds will be awarded to those who sell the most Bonds. Now that we have the workers all set to sell War Bonds, it's up to the people of this district to help them put over this Bond Drive, so we can reach our goal and help our boys come home sooner. If a Bondholder has not contacted you as yet, you may get in touch with one by following the list of names of our workers who are close to your home. Today our men are pouring into our hospitals by the hundreds, they need the finest medical care and attention—so please buy your extra War Bonds. We know you take them at work, but save for an extra War Bond from your Bondholder.

Popoldne sta se uri pri pouku grozno vlekli. Viktor je bil še vedno užaljen, Alena pa kaj malo razpoložena za pouk. Čutila je dobro, da je iskrenost in veselje zlagano, da bi najrajski prijela dečka za lase in ga kaznovala, samo da bi si otešala notranje vzmemirjenje. Težko je pričakovala konca in se vrlo zatajevala obe dolgi uri, med katere je kajkuvalo v dušo, kar ji je bil opnesel Smrekar: Kruhek, kruhek! Domisilia se je Minke, ki ji je govorila o delu, o bremenu, ki ne vpraša: ugodno ali neugodno, priložno ali nepriložno. Zato je sklenila, da jo takoj obiše in ji vse razodene.

Po pouku je vprašala Viktorja, ali bi šla k ovčkam. "Nak," je rekel Viktor. "Zato, ker si huda!"

Zagrabil je klobuk in ubežal pred njo iz sobe. Aleni je bilo všeč, da ni deček silil z njo, ali vendar jo je zabolelo. Čuden stud do te hiše se ji je porajal in krik prejšnjega večera se je oglasil nemadoma: Stran — stran odtod!

V tem hipu je tem bolj zahrepela po nekom, da mu pove in potoži, da ga vpraša za svet.

Gnalo jo je iz hiše, kjer so se dvignili nenadoma strahovi, polni mrkih pogledov, brez prijaznosti in brez ljubezni. Kakor brez volje, vsa nemirna in boječa je šla po stopnicah in krenila proti šoli. Bilo ji je, da bi se razjokala, in ni vedela, ali od jeze ali od žalosti. Ko je srečala na poti Viktorjeve ovčke, ki jih je gnat pastir s kravami vred na pašo, so ovce obstale in jo gledale s plašnimi očmi. Nato so meketaj zbežale za pastirjem.

"Tudi ovce se me ogibajo, tudi te vedo, da nisem in nočem biti Smrekarjeva." Domisilija se ji je razburjala, Cutila je, da ji srce nemirno utriplje in da ji korak beži, kar preganjam. Pred njo se je dvignila bela stena šolskega poslopja, da ni vedela, kdaj. Siloma je ustavila nogo, da ni vsa zasopla prestopila praga in povedala Minki, kako se je zgodilo nekaj strašnega.

Ko se je oddihala, da se umiri in uredi misli, so se iz šole usuli dečki. Dokler jih je gledalo učiteljevo oko, so šli paroma. Potem so se hitro zaprashi v tek, klobuki so frčali po zraku, turbice odletavale na plečih in vsa dolina se je smejala z deškimi glasovi. Tekli so veselo vriskajoč mimo Alene, da se je morala ustaviti in se umakniti ob poti. In ta deški smeh je ni razsrdil, kakor klic vesele moči jo je predramil, da se je zasmehala še ona in kot bi s krepko roko pretrgala polo, na kateri je bila pisana tožba o strahovih in grozi, se je okrenila in izginila mimo šole v gozdici.

"Ne, nalači jí ne povem. Ni sem otrok, ki pribeki k materi, ker se je zobel v prstek. Ne, danes že ne. Kaj mi mar!"

Pobrala je šibo, ki jo je puštial pastir sredi steze, in začela udarjati z njo po orumenelem listiju, da se je usipalo z grmov. Brez cilja je hodila po gozdu, lice ji je rdele, in preden se je zavedala, je legal mrak na gozd.

Ko se je vsa razigrana bližala Smrekarjevi hiši, jo je hipoma zopet objel prejšnji strah in stud. Toda nič več ni klonila pred to temno senco. Zapela je in pevajoč šla po stopnicah.

"Kako bo pri večerji," je pomisnila. — "Kaj mi mar," je rekla odločno, si popravila lase in šla v obedinico.

(Nadaljevanje)

"Kako si zamišljate moža, ki bi mogel ostati miren in hladen vprito tolikšnega prijateljstva, nežnosti in razumevanja do najglobljih občutkov? Kako bi mogel ostati hladen in miren, ko bi padale cvetice na njegovo samotno in trnjevo pot? Kako bi mogel ostati miren in hladen, ko bi videl, kako se spet odpira najlepša duša v najlepši časi, kako se počasi oprošča višnjevi metuljček in širi spet v sončnem soju svoja krila?" — Ali mislite, da bi znal vse to uživati čez prepad, ki je med njim in mlado kraljico?

"Kakšen bi moral biti tak človek? Ali ga vaša visokost mora poznava?"

"Harro, ali hočete res v tem trenutku, ko sem vam izročen na milost in nemilost, — ne morem in ne maram priti brez vas k svoji hčeri, ker ne prenese nobene bolečine več, — ali mi hočete res izsiliti kakšno obljubo?"

"Visokost, ne. Vem, da sem največji norec med Bordighero in Parizom, — toda takoj pridevam za vami."

"Knez hiti iz sobe. Iznenada se je pokazalo sonce in temnosinji oblaki se umikajo mogočno valovečemu morju. Kako se vse iskri in sveti po grebenih valov! Palme otresajo svoje biserne v svežem vetru. Knez utrga mokro, belo rozo, ko hiti skozi vrt . . . Moja Roža, moja bela Roža!"

"Počasi stopi v sobo, v napol mračno spalnico. Samo skozi zastore pošilja sonce svoje puščice in ena izmed njih je zadela zlate lase, da se zaikre okoli belega obrazca kakor zlato ozadje na slikah."

"Rožamarija ne vprašuje ničesar. Samo pogleda, pa vidi, kaj se je zgodilo. Kakor ne bi bila in mirna mora biti, čisto mirna.

"Preveč se je razveselila," reče Harro, ko sliši to.

Sončno je danes in Rožamarijo lahko nesejo na verando, da bo tam ležala na soncu, toplo zavita v odeje. Harro je zelo spretno obesil svileno ovratno ruto, tako, da se skriva Rožamarijo obraz v senci. Drugače jo pa vso obseva sonce. Belo volneno obloko ima, in na njen bledi obraz pada rožnat soj z ovratne rute, skozi katero sili sonce. Harro je pravi blagoslov za vso hišo.

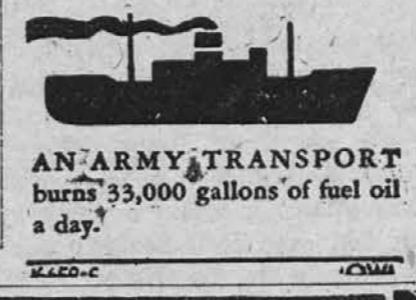

Knez je pripravil stanovanje v sobi gospodične Grangerjeve in mu uredil poleg verande majhno pisarno. Rožamarijo je videl samo za nekaj trenutkov, in knez se ni mogel dovolj naučiti, kako miren in ravnomočen je bil pri tem. Prav tako, kakor bi se bila videla dva prijatelja, ki se še nikoli nista ločila.

(Dalje prihodnjic)

"Moja Roža, moja bela Roža, vse je odpuščeno, samo pozdraviti se moraš in vesela moraš biti. Ali hočeš videti svojega prijatelja?"

Toda Roža niti tega ne mora več. Se za trenutek čuti strašno bolečino, ki se zdaj umika od nje; ne, mirno mora ležati in komaj more še pritisniti belo rozo, ki ji jo je bil oče prinesel, na svoje medlo, od solza mokro lice,
