INFLUENCE OF ATHLETICS ON OUR ORGANIZATION

Athletics will take a very conspicuous place in our lodges. Games between the various lodges of the J. S. K. J. and other fraternal organizations will stand out in prominence clearly above all other forms of lodge activities. Lodge enthusiasm will be centered about these games and it is very expedient that our parents were attracted to this form of interest at an early stage. This will be the one side of lodge life that will awaken a widespread interest and enthusiasm of Slovene youth. The prominence of sports in America is indicated by the capacity crowds at all stadiums and playing grounds. These large attendances not only indicate the large place that games hold in public interest, but also emphasizes the extreme importance of all our lodges devoting due consideration to this question of athletics.

We hope that no one doubts that there are benefits to be derived from inter-lodge athletics. There may arise some evils, but it is fairly certain that the good will outweigh the evil. There are benefits to be derived not merely for the organization, but for the individual as well. It will develop self-control and a spirit of fair play.

Loyalty is another quality which will be cultivated by the members, loyalty to a team and loyalty to a lodge run hand in hand. A player on a team is taught to fight for principles, he must forget himself, destroy his selfish desires for the interests of the group. Anything that brings the members of lodges together because of loyalty and enthusiasm for a common cause is good and nowhere could it be used to greater advantage than in our lodges.

There are chiefly two dangers of inter-lodge athletics, against which our organizations must guard themselves. First, there is a possibility of over doing athletics, paying too much attention to athletics is as dangerous as paying too little attention. The second danger is the attitude of winning at any cost and setting victory above all other considerations. We must avoid and make a stand against any such dangers.

Let's hope that our teams will go a long way in effecting greater fellowship by observing the rules of sportsmanship which consists of many qualities as, aggressiveness, courtesy, courage, co-operation, perseverance, self-reliance and many others.

WINTER SPORTS HERE AND THERE

ARE OUR LODGES SLEEPING?

Fortunately it is no longer necessary for us to crouch over the fires to avoid the great outdoors. People each day are beginning more and more to realize that winter as well as summer has its many qualities which add pep to our constitution. Our winter sports are becoming more popular each year and also seem to be more exciting. The credit for the introduction of winter sports should go where it is due and that is the nations of the North and of these the Norwegians with their skeeing may be said to take first place. Skee-meets are now held in this country, and our winter sports are course is laid out on some side and the contestants after running a certain distance, leap from a small obstacle, and said off through space, their jumps sometimes reaching more than a hundred feet.

A sport similar to skeeing is now shoeing. The snow-shoes resemble tennis rackets to some extent with the distinction of being used on our organs of locomotion as an aid to travel through regions of deep snow occur in the Northwest, and Canada. Skating, of course, is our popular sport and now old and young troop to the frozen lakes, ponds, and go in for skating with might and main. Among the well to do in this country the winter pastime is yachting. The frozen rivers are the chief scenes for such skating.

ADJECTIVES

If you plan to write anything, from a newspaper article to a novel, you would do well to consider remarks made by the late Senator Albert J. Beveridge, whose recent "Abraham Lincoln" is hailed as a masterpiece of biography.

Beveridge pointing out that he used as few adjectives as possible said: "Adjectives are like emergency medicine and must be given sparingly and seldom, like strychnine and other powerful stimulants. Adjectives often employed mean little or nothing. They are drugs that blur vision in the reader and save the writer the toil of description. Great writers are not victims of the adjective habit."

Plain, unadorned writing is always the most forceful. This is a good thing for everyone to remember who intends to write for this journal.

Sport Sense

THE MODERN WARRIOR OF THE RING

The art of boxing came about through a custom of the Greeks and Romans when men fought and died in the arena just to give the populace a thrill. In those days gloves were unknown, the pugilists, however, fought with the cestus, a device akin to the brass knuckles used often by foot-pads today. No doubt the ancient had champions, but unfortunately neither the styles of fighting or the personal attributes of the fighters are on record.

"The Boxer," chiseled in time defying marble perhaps is the only means which affords us any information. The cestus must have done very savage work, for the feature of the "Boxer" bear such marks that are not due to the erosion and mutilations of centuries, as a broken nose and battered forehead. The boxer in those days was accompanied by the wild music, the fluttering of pennants, the yells of the holiday rabble, most likely in the same way that our football teams and players are cheered. Perhaps then he thought of the savage mutilation or brutal death that would soon come to him. Perhaps he was hardened in that rough school of experience and turned to feast his ears on the plaudits of the crowd.

Today, the boxers as a rule are still homely, but usually retain some of the face that was given them. There is a vast improvement over the days of yore, since skill is being employed in place of strength and brute force. Modern boxing had its beginning a little over 200 years ago, in England. In France kicking with the feet was allowed, while boxing was prohibited by law.

Prize-fighting in those days was a real occupation. In the beginning, cudgels were used, and a little later the sport became tamer which allowed wrestling, strangling and almost every form of attack. At this time perhaps the rules came to existence, namely the London Prize Ring Rules. Fighting was done with bare fists which actually was not a great advance from the days of the cestus. The English claim to have sent their style of boxing around the world, passing through Australia, and landing finally in the United States.

It is said that in the lumber regions of Oregon there was a giant French-Canadian, champion of all the camps. He stood six feet-eight-inches tall, and after whipping all the bullies of various camps he had achieved such a local reputation for strength and savagery that not a man in that part of the country dared to meet him armed with anything less convincing than a sawed-off shotgun. John L. Sullivan in those days was a popular idol and triumphantly toured the country, meeting all on comers. It happened that he was passing through the town of this French-Canadian and continued to challenge everybody. The citizens schemed to fix a match and undo this invincible champion so they put the lumberman into a course of training calculated to improve his natural ability as a fighter. All loose cash was placed for betting purposes.

The eventful day came. The auditorium of the opera house in which Sullivan was to meet the lumberman was jammed to the doors. The huge lumberman strolled out into the ring and overtopped Sullivan by a full head. The word was given

Phunology

BORROWED, STOLEN AND ORIGINAL JOKES

Virtually Sure.

"Are you sure the Scotchman has bought the gasoline station?"

"Well, the free-air sign's down."

Lucky Escape.

"Yes, in the night I saw a shadow on the wall and shot—then I turned on the light."

"Well?"

"It was only my own coat."

"Well?"

"Then I thanked Providence that I was not inside it."

Juvenile Rendering.

Bobby (Reading aloud): "John appeared presently in immaculate evening dress. What does immaculate mean?"

Eight year old Sister: "No gravy spots on it."

How Does She Keep Cool.

Briggs: "Is your stenographer a fast worker?"

Wiggs: "She's so fast that she has to use a water-cooled typewriter with an asbestos ribbon."

The Lucky Charm.

"Don't you know," said Mr. Johnson, "that you can't sell life insurance without a license?"

"Boss," said the darky, "I knew I couldn't sell it, but ab didn't know the reason."

Strong Of Course.

"Gimmie three cigars," ordered O'Rourke shoving a quarter across the counter.

"Strong ones, or mild?"

"Gimmie the strong ones. The weak ones is always bustin' in me pocket."

Good Advertisement.

The typewriter salesman was calling on his customer. "Well, sir," he said, "how do you like your new machine?"

"It's great!" said the customer.

"Would you mind writing me a testimonial?"

"Certainly not." And he dashed off the following: "After using these atypewriter fro tree month and Over, i unhesitatingly pronounce it tobe al ad mor than the manufacture claim? Durinb the tyme he is in my possestion it has moor then pd for jit self in the savyink off tim e and (labor.)"

That's When!

Two Irishmen had just laid a wreath of flowers on a comrade's grave and while crossing another section of the cemetery saw a Jap lay some rice on the grave of a country man.

One of the Irishmen asked: "Do you expect you friend to come and eat the rice?"

"Do you expect you friend to come to smell the flowers," was the come back of the Jap.

His Second.

"I'm going to send out an announcement of my second marriage. How do you suggest that I word it?"

"Just say: 'Under entirely new management.'"

en and the fight was on. The lumberman started for Sullivan as if he intended to annihilate him. Sullivan gave vent to a roar of rage, lowered his head, and moved forward in a bull-like rush. His mighty right arm swept through the air and his padded fist crashed on the lumberman's jaw which sent him down with a thud.

Come on, Boys, Bar-B-Q sandwiches and all. The music makers are raring to go. Come, bring all your friends. Hustle up boys just a few more girls for the tickets that are waiting.

This is our first dance, so come and help us make it a real success.

A young man Corbett of the new school with the system of blocking blows and getting away from an attack, beat the mighty Sullivan. Corbett was the greatest exponent of this modern type of boxing and initiated the new style throughout the world since all fighters desire to acquire it.

EXCHANGES

Cleveland, O.

All members of the Betsy Ross lodge No. 186 J. S. K. J. are requested to pay their monthly dues either at the meeting or at my home at 15407 Ridpath Ave. before the 25th of each month. Those not meeting their monthly dues will be suspended. Please see that you have your dues paid on time.

Elizabeth Hafner, Secretary.

Barberton, O.

No doubt, the majority of the people realize that a Happy-Go-Lucky lodge has been organized here in Barberton. There also exist two other English-speaking lodges here and consequently there is a good deal of competition. The Buckeyes, a branch of the S. N. P. J. are constantly bucking us and we them. The S. D. Z. has The Magic City Juniors as their representatives here and also are our rivals.

When we started we thought we had the senior lodge of St. Martins behind us, but after coming to the first dance, we had, I saw that it would be entirely up to ourselves to do as much as we can. There are about 190 members in the senior lodge and out of this group only Brothers Jos. Hiti and John Balant have encouraged us and done something from having us drop out.

Some of the older members think that the young generation only seeks pleasure. They think our name should be changed and others believe that young members should not be persuaded to transfer from the older lodge to ours.

I want to tell those that when they change the name of S. S. C. U. we will change the name of our lodge.

The Happy-Go-Lucky lodge No. 195 is going to hold a Masquerade Dance on Saturday night February 9, 1929, at the Domovina Hall at 14th St.

We invite all the members of the St. Martin's lodge No. 44, especially those four members that attended our first dance as well as all the rest of the people from Barberton and vicinity.

The refreshments as well as other necessities will be prepared by the committee and I am sure no one will be sorry for coming.

Come one, come all, a good time is guaranteed.

Mary Hiti, Treasurer.

Euclid, O.

Well folks, here we are. Someone wanted to know what happened to the Euclid Circle Lodge. No, we were not swallowed up but we still exist. To prove it to you on February 2, 1929 the "EUCLID CIRCLE" lodge No. 189 and "NAPREDEK," No. 132 are holding their first Big Masquerade Dance.

Exceptionally good prizes will be awarded. All lodges of the J. S. K. J. are cordially invited. We would appreciate it very much to have the lodges from Cleveland, Collinwood, Noble, Nottingham and Euclid, Ohio, attend this dance as all traveling vehicles are at their convenience.

Come on, Boys, Bar-B-Q sandwiches and all. The music makers are raring to go. Come, bring all your friends. Hustle up boys just a few more girls for the tickets that are waiting.

This is our first dance, so come and help us make it a real success.

Don't forget the date, February 2, 1929. Time: 7:00 p.m. Place: Jugo-Slovenski Drustveni Dom, 20713 Recher Avenue. Its a large building you can't miss it. Pridite vse, stari in mladi. Pust bo kmalu na vrata trkal.

Miss Mary F. Slopko, Secretary Lodge No. 189 JSKJ.

SLOVENES OF PENNSYLVANIA

So many of the people during the immigration of our parents in the last century, regarded our people to be unlearned plebeians, with heads entirely empty. Whatever the appraisement of our people has been, the fact is the Slovene immigrants were not a mass unlearned by culture as is proved by the extension and the success of all they have endeavored. The readers of American newspapers now are familiar with the name Jugoslav, and know something about the Slovenes in this country.

The Slovenes have the characteristic of being a very adaptable people and physically can adapt themselves to any climatic conditions, and outwardly can adapt themselves to any tendency. Thus far our people have failed to lose their individuality in spite of the fact that they have mixed and lived with all nationalities.

Many of the Slovenes like the Croatians, Poles and Slovaks, upon abandoning their native land, poured into the State of Pennsylvania which provided them various livelihoods.

The majority of the 50,000 Slovenes, residing in the State of Pennsylvania have very strenuous work being employed in the mines and steel mills. A large proportion of them are in and about Pittsburgh where they are engaged in farming, railroad work, steel mills, stockyards, building trades, and business.

A good number of professional men and women have sprung out of the Slovene population. A great percentage of our people in this "Smoky City" have purchased their own homes, and have colonized around their church. Their National Home is a contributing factor in organizational work.

Many Slovene settlements are widely scattered throughout the State and each community is strongly organized, many of them having a National Home as the center of activity. Most of the Slovene national societies have numbers of lodges located in these towns founded primarily for the object of mutual insurance, but also have many other functions. The Slovenes in Pennsylvania have shown their industrious qualities, a value to any state and also have characterized themselves as a people open minded to all personal and civic progress.

FIRST LECTURE IS SUCCESSFUL

Mr. Anton Druzina in his first lecture given at the St. Clair Ave. Branch library, entitled "The cultural background of Slovene literature," very favorably impressed his audience. His broad knowledge of his subject and his manner of presentation won him many listeners. He related of the early periods of subjugation of the Slovenes by the Germans and Turks who incessantly suppressed all Slovene cultural, political and religious tendencies.

His complete treatment of the subject deserves praise, we hope that more individuals attend his future lectures which are to be held the next three successive Wednesday evenings at 8:00 P. M.

A REMINDER

Persons submitting material to this journal, will please remember that it has been a policy never to publish articles without signatures. A good number of such submissions have been received and shall be published if the respective authors make their identity known.

SLOVENES TAKE PART IN EXPOSITION

The "Cleveland Press" is to hold an "All Nations Exposition" this coming March in which all nationalities of Cleveland are participating. Individuals and organizations from the "melting pot" of Cleveland will place on exhibition at the Public Hall such articles which are a specialty of their people. The representatives in most cases will be in national costume which should add plenty of color to the affair.

The Slovenes are to exhibit some unique embroidery known as "kleklanja" which many of our mothers indulge in during their spare moments. They are also to place beautiful wood carvings and paintings on display. The Slovene exhibit is sponsored and arranged by the Slovene Sokols who are constantly prepared to do their bit in acquainting the public with the Slovene and his ways; and the Jugoslav Slovene Girls' Club, organized primarily for the appreciation of Slovene culture.

The Central Council of the exposition has the following Slovene representatives: Mr. J. N. Rogelj, Mrs. J. W. Mally and Mrs. E. J. Posh who as members are doing everything possible to make an excellent exhibition of Slovene handicrafts.

LJUBLJANA TRADE FAIR

Entries are now being invited for the ninth biggest annual Trade Fair at Ljubljana, which will be held from the 30th of May to the 9th of June inclusive. This fair always attracts a very considerable number of exhibits from Western Europe (France and England) as Jugoslavia can still absorb far larger quantities of finished goods than are at present produced in the country itself. The fair, which is the oldest established and most extensive held in Jugoslavia, also presents an excellent opportunity for foreign merchants to get into close touch with the country as an export land, in which respect agricultural produce, timber and minerals play an important part.

J. S. K. J. DANCE A SUCCESS

The dance of the J. S. K. J. lodges of Cleveland was favorably attended by both the adults and the youth. Those less adept in Terpsichorean accomplishments, mingled quite freely and displayed

SOKOL GIRLS WIN MANY PLAUDITS

These young and shapely ladies played an important part toward the success of the gynastic demonstration staged by the Sokols last Sunday. Performing in perfect unison they presented a most picturesque dance, gliding, leaping, and at moments hesitating, but at all times rhythmic. Perhaps they could have been enlivened to goddesses for they transmitted a sense of perfection in beauty and movement only attributed to the goddesses of ancient Greece. The constant, patient attention of the instructresses to their girl athletes should be considered, since it was the excellent pre-instruction of Vera Kushlan, Ann Gornick, and Ann Azman that gave them the collected control of mind and body.

SOKOLICE DEC 18 1928

First row: Zella Štrukelj, Josephine Marinčič, Margaret Sedlak, Vera Kushlan, Josephine Pegan, Josephine Verbič, Ann Vidmar and Frances Selan. Second row: Josephine Dermota, Frances Korošec, Christine Brezovar, Jean Mola, Mellie Kovačič, Ann Gornik, Mildred Debevec and Victoria Brezar. Third row: Louise Hočevat, Matilda Remec, Ann Ažman, Ann Hočevat, Mollie Knaus, Frances Konjar and Agnes Blatnik. The following also participated in the exercises: Mildred Tomsic, May Omahen, Gusta Pavlich and Mickey Jaramines.
