

A black and white photograph showing a large group of children, likely students, walking through a snowy field. They are dressed in winter clothing, including coats, hats, and scarves. In the background, there are snow-covered trees and a building, possibly a school. The scene is captured in a grainy, historical style.