

FLASHES FROM 65TH

The Slovene Home on East 65th was filled to capacity last Saturday where everybody danced to their heart's content to the music of Eddie Habat and his orchestra.

Two strangers at the dance were Marie Stifter and Mary Drzila. Come on girls, keep coming more often. The more you come the more you'll like it. Right, gang? ... Joe Kukec taking time out from tending bar downstairs at a wedding to take in a few dances. Here's a tip gals—this guy really has rhythm. What a dancer ... Looked like Frances Preseren was having a good time. Can't help but have one at Slovene dances. Don't you agree, Frances?

Marty Plock seen on the sidelines again. Give the girls a break Marty. You can't blame the heat anymore ... Dorothy Kukec and Johnny Zorich making a cute couple on the dance floor. Sorry Dorothy for the mistake in identity ... The "Carl Avenue Gang"—Al Vidmar, Richard Krall and Frank Potnik, three wolves, always do a lot of dancing. That's it boys ... Tony Perovsek in quite a discussion, with a certain gal during intermission. Lucky two to get seats. They sure were scarce ... Eleanor Rebo trying to get through the large stag line. Quite a job even with a fellow to help ... A guy that can really jitterbug to those slow jive pieces is none other than Stan Zupancic.

Surprised to see Kent State student, Chris Miller, at the dance. You try all the dance halls, right, Chris? ... Joe Kasunich seen very late in the evening. No fair cheating on the girls, Joe. Come early next time ... Ruth Phillips attending the dance with Valentine Smole. These two make a nice couple ... Can it be true that Johnny Wolf actually let a polka go by? Must have really been tired Johnny, to occupy that corner for so long ... Theresa Fabian's time being occupied by a certain handsome lad. Who was he, Theresa? ... Another newcomer to the hall was Jack Hacharian. Hope you like it and keep coming.

So ends another night and another good time at East 65th. This weekend we will have Johnny Vadal and his boys with us again after a long absence. Be seeing you!

When a man has a birthday he takes a day off. When a woman has one, she takes a year off.

"ROBERTA"

Gertrude Niesen

"Roberta," second show of the Cleveland 500 season of light opera and musical comedy, opens Monday night, November 17th. Featuring the beloved music of Jerome Kern, as sung by sultry Gertrude Niesen and a cast of 100, the sparkling musical will be presented in the new "outdoor garden" theatre of the Cleveland Public Auditorium for six nights, through Saturday, November 22nd.

Gertrude Niesen, lush-voiced darling of the American stage and screen, will be supported by other New York personalities. Eric Brotherson plays the part of Huck Haines; Jack Williams, as Billy Boyden; Marjorie Peggs, as Sophie Teale; Helen Raymond, as Mrs. Teale; George Britton, as John Kent; Edith Fletcher, as Aunt Minnie; Davis Cunningham, as Ladislav; Eleanor Lutton, as Stephanie; Edmund Dorsay, as Lord Henry; Louise Hoffhines, as Sidonie; and Louise Glenn, Ballerina. Miss Niesen will take the part of Schwarenska.

Another Festival star is Geo. Britton, a handsome young baritone who entered the field of light opera only four years ago, but is already a reigning favorite in operetta centers all over the country. Had he followed his earliest ambition (that of becoming a railroad conductor!) two things might have happened: either the musical scene would be minus one of its finest baritones or else the nation's trains would be overloaded with women! Britton's stirring voice and striking appearance have won him well-deserved laurels both in this country and abroad.

Good seats for "Roberta," and also for "Desert Song," the final show of the season, November 24-29 are still available at Taylor's Ticket Office, 28 Taylor Arcade, or may be obtained at the Public Hall box office on evenings of performances after 6:30 p. m. Prices are: $3.60, $3.00, $2.40, $1.80, and $1.20, tax included.

BIRTHS

Married last Saturday in St. Mary's Church on Holmes Avenue, were Mr. Anthony J. Perushak and Miss Jean Debevec. The groom is the proprietor of Old Oxford Tavern, 1014 East 63 Street. The bride operates a beauty shoppe at 1284 East 168 Street. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John and Mary Debevec.

In a wedding ceremony performed last Saturday in Immaculate Conception Church on Superior Avenue, Miss Elsie Lucille Zalelet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zalelet, became the bride of Mr. Michael Malinas.

GOOD GIFT ITEM

If you are planning to buy a bowling ball you had better decide to do so at once. Last season owing to the Xmas rush many people did not get their bowling balls delivered until after January 1. The best way of buying the right ball is not only to get fitted correctly but also to roll a ball already bored to your correct dimensions. In this manner you actually try before you buy. It is the safest method.

Grdina Recreation invites you to come in for a fitting and a practice session with a ball already bored to your finger and span dimensions.

GRDINA LADIES' HANDICAP BOWLING LEAGUE

Tanko Markets kept top spot with a whitewash over Teany's. Frances Yurkovich and Antonia Tanko had 246-590 and 180-511 respectively. Toni Grgas rolled 468 for the losers.

Grdina Recreation upset Barto's two games in spite of Eleanor Malensek's 193-502 and Mae Novak's 475 for the losers.

Flaisman Cafe dropped the first game to Paulich's Bar, and then took the next two. For the winners, Helen Flaisman had 197-480, and Stella Zadell led the losers.

Superior Nite Club tipped the Old Homestead Tavern for two. Marie Borovic was high for the Club and Eleanor Suhadolnik for the Homesteads.

Hammering consistently, the Smrekar Hardwares made it two over the Mihic Cafe. Elsie Curry's 202-536 and Florence Mohar's 511 were the telling blows. Rose Mihic's 473 was high for the Cafe.

Terrace Beauty Salons trimmed the Len-Bars twice. Mary Modic led the beauticians, while Mary Jerman's 194-484 was only good for one.

NOTES FROM RECHER

On November 8th Johnny Vadal and his orchestra again furnished the music at a dance held at the ever-popular Recher Hall in Euclid. A Grape Festival had been planned and turned out to be a most enjoyable affair. For the benefit of those who don't know what a Grape Festival is, a description of the affair follows—'twas a lot of fun.

To begin with rows and rows of grapes had been hung up in the hall along with apples and pears. The object was to try to steal the fruit without being caught. There were six people, who one might call the "cops," on patrol. Whenever anyone was caught stealing he had to either pay a fine or be taken to jail until someone was kind enough to "bail" him out.

Most of the fellows were wondering if Joe Ivancic had leased the jail for the evening. I heard that he had some of the girls bail him out. Did you forget your wallet, Joe, or did you enjoy it that much?

Tillie Milavec was another "jailbird"; but it wasn't your fault, was it, Tillie? There she was innocently standing with some friends when all of a sudden she found an apple in her hand and someone right behind her all set to take her off to jail. One of her male friends had to bail her out. Oh well, she must have been "framed."

One of the cops was really on her toes. She seemed to come from nowhere and had thieves off to jail in a hurry.

It seems Harry Yancher had not done enough practicing in stealing. Everytime I turned around he was either in jail or paying a fine. Course he was quite comical about the whole thing and had us all in "stitches." Anyway, he was company for Joe.

The following night, November 9th, the Vadal Orchestra again played at Recher Hall. This dance, held by the Euclid Singing Society, had, according to rumor, the greatest attendance of this year at Recher Hall. It seemed that most of the crowd was from Waterloo, too. Could anyone tell me (if you know who I am) whether George Kraincic has been practicing his hawk calls? You know, he lives on a farm now. He certainly was doing alright dancing those polkas and keeping the spectators amused.

Louise Recher was seen wearing a pretty royal blue dress which she had made for this occasion. She certainly was having a swell time. Incidentally, she and Mike Gerl won the Jitterbug Contest held last week by the Vets. Mayor Sims of Euclid and his associates had donated the prize.

Tomorrow, November 15th, Adria is holding its Harvest Moon Dance. Al Strudel's Sextet will supply the music. "Who's Petunia" will be the main event of the evening. So, for an exceptionally good time, come down to Recher Hall. You're sure to enjoy yourselves. Then, too, wouldn't you like to meet Petunia? I'll see you then.

ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED

The engagement of Miss Lucille Hrovat to Mr. Eddie Terlep, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Terlep, 15501 Lucknow Avenue, is being announced by Mr. John J. Hrovat.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Potocnik of 1268 East 168 Street are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Louise E., to Mr. Fred Yager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Yager Sr., 17618 Grove-wood Avenue.

Up to 600 units a minute can be counted by new photo-electric counter which plugs into any 110-volt 60-cycle AC outlets. Control and light source are placed at point-of-count for machine output, piece goods, bottles, etc.
